Winnie's Scribbles

By Winnie Campbell

Mrs. Nellie Molinski from Vancouver is visiting her sisters, Mary Sparks and Marg Nesbitt and relations for the Christmas holidays. Our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Harold Fischer and family on the passing of Harold.

*It wouldn't be Christmas,
It wouldn't be Christmas without the snow,
without lighted windows that sparkle and glow,
the laughter of children the trees plump and tall,
the fresh bit of mistletoe hung in the hall.*

*It wouldn't be Christmas without friends so dear to share,
in our happiness year after year,
a hearth brightly glowing with smiles sweet and fair,
the music of Christmas on crisp wintry air.*

*It wouldn't be Christmas if faith didn't live,
if peace wasn't ours and if hearts didn't give,
without warmth and gladness to brighten our day,
and no dear Santa so jolly and gay.*

*It wouldn't be Christmas without those we love,
without angel voices we hear from above
the sweet friendly greetings of holiday cheer
in our words, 'Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year'.
From Winnie to all my friends.*

Jewellery ideal

pearl jewelry imparts a look of classic elegance that is both timeless and timely and, because high quality cultured pearl jewelry has lasting value, it is sure to be treasured for years to come.

In centuries past, warriors' shields and swords were sometimes studded with hundreds of pearls in the belief that they would serve as charms against danger, and pearls gleamed regal-

ly from the crowns of Henry VIII and Charlemagne.

Now preferring the more subtle ornamentation of cultured pearl tie bars, cuff links and lapel pins to the earlier ornate displays, today's men have rediscovered the stately, striking beauty of this precious gem of nature.

Women, too, have found that the versatility of cultured pearl jewelry provides the perfect complement to a wide range of clothes and looks, from casual to dressy, daytime to evening wear. Perfect for accessorizing the "little black dress" and enhancing the smart styling of a tailored business suit, and just as ideal an adornment for an elegant evening dress, the inherent worth of cultured pearl jewelry is increased by its versatility.

Selecting high quality cultured pearl jewelry will ensure that the gift you have chosen will have long-lasting value.

A beautiful, rich lustre is the most significant indication of quality, for it is this glow, emanating from deep within the cultured pearl, that gives it such remarkable beauty.

When judging cultured pearls, examine the shadow area rather than the reflective highlight area, taking care not to confuse surface shine with the deep inner glow of lustre.

Other signs of superior quality are an absence of flaws in the cultured pearl's surface and shape and, when selecting a strand of cultured pearls, appropriate size matching is also important.
