which you can keep up to date on coming events, as well as learn a little bit about what the other fellows are doing. "It is to be hoped that we can find one man in each bunkhouse at least. With this many, a coverage of humorous and personal events taking place in each hut can be obtained."

It is certainly good to know what the fellow in the other hut is doing, isn't it?

Below are some more bits and bites from the first issue of the News.

"Attention skiers. If you want to learn how to land on your head and still survive, contact Paul Boudreau of the Accounting Department."

"Some of the Engineers were wondering if Ed Brady wears that camouflaged outfit so that no one can see him doing nothing all day."

"Dave McDonald reports the lose of a Gray and Red mottled Shaeffers pen. Will anyone finding this pen please return it to the Engineering Department. REWARD."

"What well-known master of those 'galloping Dominos' was seen creeping out of the Schreiber telephone exchange at 3:30 a.m. Sunday morning?"

"Hockey! Hubba! Hubba!"

Hello, hockey fans of Terrace Bay! Last Monday evening in the Recreation Centre were gathered most of the hockey ivory of our community. A rather rigorous discussion was held during which all present had a chance to throw in their 2 cents worth.

"From this would-be hot stove league, came a motion to elect a tentative 5-man committee with the power to add to their numbers, if the occasion warrants. Elected to this committee by secret ballot were Harold (Mush) Marsh, Paul Boudreau, William (Casey) Kozak, Bill LeBlanc and George (Happy) Parks.

"Since its induction, the hockey committee has been mulling over the problems of equipment and teams, but at this writing nothing definite is available for publication from the hockey moguls. The outdoor rink has been laid out and the go-ahead signal should be given any day now.

"It has been learned that the rink will be equipped with lights and a dressing room. It's going to be great for a bush league fellahs!"

"Tentative plans call for a house league composed of as many teams as there are enthusiastic players. From this league, a representative Company team will be iced to play outside clubs.

"Don't think that we have forgotten all of you who do your skating minus hockey sticks. Plans will be made for pleasure skating. So come on you fellahs, put on your blades for a lot of healthv fun this winter."

Early history of the News

Terrace Bay resident Edna Beppard told the News that the newspaper began its life as a weekly Kimberly-Clark release- printed and circulated there as well.

Mrs. Beppard said that her now deceased husband, Jim, was in charge of the paper in the mill from 1953 until 1957 when K-C asked him if he would take it off the company's hands. (At the time of this printing, the News could not uncover any details prior to 1953).

Jim Beppard did take over the paper and he rented the very same spot where the News is now. (The phone number and postal code were the same as they are now).

Mr. Beppard operated the paper with his wife Edna. Isabel Marsh also worked with them and the two women worked in the office. Edna Beppard was the News' first-ever advertising manager. Isabel Marsh did the typing and the like.

At this time in the history of the News, delivery boys were hired by the paper and they circulated it door-to-door in Terrace Bay, said Edna. In Schreiber, Mary's Flowers (which is now Flowers and Things) was the drop off point and residents picked up their paper there, she said.

Jim Beppard used to type his stories into an electric typewriter and then he would run the paper off on Tuesday night on a duplicating machine.

Jim Beppard ran the paper from 1957 until late 1960 when he sold it to Isabel Marsh. The paper changed hands on December 31, 1960, said Edna Beppard.

Isabel had been with the paper from day one, said Edna, so she had no problems.

Edna told the News she was disappointed that her husband left the paper. Doing the paper and working at the mill was too much work for him, she said.

Mr. Beppard was with Industrial Relations at Kimberly-Clark.
