

Resident's opinion local medical profession in fine form

the fact that the doctors are human, and being understaffed as they are, carry a large workload.

I think I would rather wait a bit longer to receive my quality health care than be rushed through and receive inadequate care.

Though I am not familiar with your son's medical needs, may I suggest to the woman who wrote last weeks' comments, that had her son been in need of EMERGENCY medical treatment, I'm confident that he would have received it promptly.

If he were victim of an emergency situation he would not have recovered on his own accord within one and a half hours!

I am not accutely familiar with the governing or funding of the provincial medical system, but if you feel so strongly that our overall health care system is lacking, then perhaps your complaints should be directed to your MP Gilles Pouliot (1-800-268-7192), so that the government may improve the overall health care system in Northern Ontario.

Since I believe that the people here in Terrace Bay are doing the best they can with what they have.

So...to the McCausland Hospital staff-administration to cleaning, cooks to technicians, doctors to nurses- I applaud you and the quality health care you continue to give us.

Great Lakes Buys U.S.

Great Lakes Forest Products Ltd. appears to be on the way to realizing its first foreign investment- a new newsprint mill in northeastern Washington State.

The Thunder Bay pulp and paper producer has found a long-awaited fifth partner for the new mill in Knight-Ridder Newspapers Inc., which has agreed to join Great Lakes and four other newspaper publishers as partners in Ponderay Newsprint Co.

The project had been on hold since late 1985 when one of the original joint venture partners dropped out.

Under the new partnership, project feasibility studies are being updated and the six partners are negotiating for project financing.

If the parts come together, the new mill could be under construction this summer at a site near Usk, Washington.

Production could then begin in late 1988 or early 1989.

The current deal would see Great Lakes investing $60 million for a 40 per cent share in mill equity and a management voice.

Great Lakes views the project as an opportunity to contribute to stability in its other operations in Thunder Bay and Dryden.

The Washington mill is expected to produce 180,000 metric tons of newsprint a year in a West Coast market that is experiencing tighter newsprint supplies.
