Recreational questionnaires will help to identify needs

By Ken Lusk

The Recreational Masterplan for the Township of Schreiber is well-underway and Barb Hodgins, planner for Conlin Engineering and Planning Limited, (the company doing the study), was in town last Wednesday and talked to the News about the plan.

(Conlin also did Schreiber's Official Plan about 1½ years ago. The Official Plan defines land use in a community. Hodgins said that the recreational plan could possibly bring about a need for amendments to policies in the Official Plan.)

Hodgins said that a good rapport has evolved between herself and the groups, organizations and persons in the community that she has been talking to about the plan.

Hodgins talked to representatives from the Girl Guides, the Boy Scouts, baseball leagues, the legion, the Curling Club and the Chimo Club, just to name a few.

These discussions are taking place in order to pinpoint possible future recreational needs of the community.

Another such group was the study team for the community, the Recreation Committee. The committee is composed of Councillors Tom Quinton and Gerry Godin, Recreation Director Ron Larivee, Chairman Irene Borutski, Vice-chairman Janet Moorey, Jack Handle, Alice Scott, Gary Dament, Keith Scott Sr., Reeve Mike Cosgrove, Bert Logan and Tammy McParland, the student representative on the committee.

Questionnaire

A questionnaire will be distributed to every household in Schreiber on or around June 10. It will basically ask what type of recreational facilities people believe there is or will be a need for as well as whether respondents would support an increase in the tax base for such facilities, said Hodgins.

There will be many drop-off points in Schreiber for the completed questionnaires and residents have until June 19 to fill it in and drop it off.

Tammy Meister, a Schreiber resident, has been hired by Conlin to assist anyone in the community who may have questions about the questionnaire once they receive it. Tammy can be reached at the recreation centre at 824-2317.

Hodgins said that right now Conlin is in the information-gathering stage of the plan. Discussions are held and information is analyzed in order to indicate what people want in the way of recreation.

A wide eye will definitely be kept on cost, because as Hodgins said, people don't want a "pie in the sky". Whatever grants can possibly be utilized will be, said Hodgins, so that the citizens' tax dollar can go further.

Below is an article written by Conlin and submitted by Hodgins to the News. It basically touches upon the what is involved in the three steps of the plan.

Students Placement office now open-many jobs listed

By Ken Lusk

Once again the Student Placement Centre of the Canada Employment Centre for Students (CECS) is open for business. The Student Placement Officer, Monique Parise, would like to help hundreds of local students find work for the summer.

Parise, who took over from last year's officer Jaclynne Speziale, officially opened her office on Monday, June 1.

Her role, and the role of the centre, is to help find summer employment for secondary and post-secondary students in Terrace Bay, Schreiber, Rossport and Pays Plat. (Employment does not necessarily end for the students once the summer is over. In addition, there is no age restriction for registering. The student must have gone to school in the last school year and be planning to go back in the next year).

Parise also assists Gr. 8 students who are going into Gr. 9 at the high school.

Hours for business

Parise would like the students who need work to know that she will be in Terrace on Mondays, Tuesday, Wednesdays and Fridays. Her office in Terrace Bay is in the multi-purpose room of the recreation complex and her hours are from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4:45 p.m.

Heritage Fund

The Northern Heritage Fund will start out with $30 million in the kitty, production from new mines and major expansions of existing mines will not be taxed for the first three years of their operations, and spending on transportation in the North will increase 35 per cent to $107 million, including $26 million to be spent on improvements to Northern Ontario's highways, Robert Nixon announced in the Liberal government's budget.

Northern opposition MPPs (13 of the 15 MPPs from Northern Ontario are in opposition seats) criticised the government for doing nothing about Northern gas prices that can be as much as 10 cents higher than prices in the south.

The government also plans to reduce the provincial deficit by $331 million to $980 million, and spend more on education and health. There are no personal income tax increases called for in the new budget.

While the Heritage Fund will start with $30 million, Nixon told reporters, "I can't predict what's going to be in it for next year."

The budget was greeted as a mostly good-news, pre-election document made possible by a booming economy around the golden horseshoe.
