Rosspport theatre group getting ready

For those who have been fortunate to grab a ticket for "The Hand that Cradles the Rock," it's time to let you know a little more about the play and those involved.

The play is an adult comedy about a writer and his wife who is also an interior decorator. While she is gone off closing deals, he stays home and takes care of the baby. It's a role reversal and one that the ladies will particularly enjoy.

About the cast

Dave Speer is helping to prove the popular theory that politicians are great actors. Dave, the former reeve of Terrace Bay, is making his acting debut with the Rosspport Theatre Group. He plays the leading man, Ross Cameron.

Although this is his first time on stage, he has theatre in his blood. His mother was an actress with the Little Theatre group in his hometown of Tora, Ontario. Four brothers and two sisters, some of whom are still performing, were also members.

An engineer with CP Rail, Dave has lived on Nicol Island with his wife Brigitte for three years. He admits his ego is part of the reason for becoming involved with the play, but mainly it's his desire to be part of community events that made him step forward.

Originally, he wanted to help with lighting; however, it was soon apparent he that was destined for bigger things. So, in addition to the hard work of memorizing lines, Dave will help with lighting and set design.

Shirley Vienot recently celebrated her first anniversary of life in Rosspport and enjoys the slow pace and peacefulness of the village. A registered nurse with a B. Sc. from Queen's University, she works part-time at the McCausland Hospital in Terrace Bay. Shirley is in the process of converting the old Thunder Mug into her own little shop called the Treasure Trove.

Two of Shirley's passions are dancing and acting. While taking four years of Theatre Arts at the Kirkland Lake Collegiate, she played the lead female role in "Sunday Costs Five Pesos" and performed in numerous dance dramas and skits at high-school assemblies. Her interest in dance continued after graduation, and she mastered the art of ballroom dancing at the Royal Military College in Kingston. Once again, Shirley is taking to the stage as Alexandra Cameron, the wife and interior designer!

Billie-Jo Keating and her husband Bill have resided at Selim Siding for nine years. They started with a small one-room log cabin and have transformed it into a beautiful home on the shores of Lake Superior.

Her newest project is Rosspport's first production of "The Hand that Rocks the Cradle". She portrays Beattie Cooper, mother of Alexandra. Bille-Jo enjoys the theatre and, until now, has only been involved in behind-the-scenes activities.

As a member of her high school drama club, she painted back-drops and was part of the chorus in "H.M.S. Pinafore." Billie-Jo has stepped into her first acting role with enthusiasm.

Where do I sign?

A motion was carried to authorize memberships of town representatives to various associations. Among the associations which the town will pay for its members: The Airport Management Conference of Ontario; The Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police; The Association of Ontario Professional Engineers. Reeve Ramsey said this by-law (by-law 77-88) will allow council to "know who goes to what and when."

Reserve funds in good shape

Council had some discussion relating to the placement of the Reserve Fund. They were concerned about the entire amount being kept in one bank. The fund is currently held in the CIBC in the mall. Clerk-treasurer Dave Fulton presented the reserve funds balance for the end of 1987, and said the amount of the reserve fund was "very good." Council reports $547,000 in reserve funds, and $160,000 in working funds.

Hospital donation to wait

Council decided to defer a request from McKellar hospital for a donation to their CATscan fund. They will discuss the request in committee before the next regular council. Councillor Houston recognized it as a high profile project that is not funded by the government, but by citizens. He proposed a donation of $1 per person, for a total of between $2,800 and $3,000. Reeve Ramsey and Councillor King suggested that consideration be given to McCausland hospital and others as well in their decision.
