

Severe weather season starts on March 30th!

Each year, an average of 25 tornadoes touch down in Ontario. Some are minor and cause little damage, others such as the central Ontario tornado in 1985, are major and cause deaths and injuries.

March 30 marks the beginning of the severe weather season in Ontario.

Environment Canada issues weather watches and warnings when anticipated weather poses a threat to public safety. This information is relayed to the public by radio and television.

Weather warning

A severe weather warning is issued to alert the public that severe thunderstorms or tornadoes are imminent in the warning area --ie, a severe thunderstorm is in progress or expected to occur within two hours.

Tornado Safety Hints

A personal tornado awareness program should include:

- being aware of the weather, knowing the radio or television stations which broadcast up-to-the-minute weather information
- knowing the name by which Environment Canada refers to your forecast region when they issue weather forecasts

- reviewing your plans of action

When a tornado threatens

1. Stay away from windows, doors and outside walls. Protect your head.
2. For maximum safety, go down to the basement or seek shelter under a stairway or sturdy table, or in a closet.
3. Try to reach the centre of the house or the side away from the storm.
4. Avoid buildings with large areas of unsupported roof, including arenas, barns or supermarkets.

If caught in such a building, seek out the lowest floor, an inside hallway or small interior windowless room, or get under something sturdy.

5. If caught in the open, try to determine the tornado's direction of travel and move at right angles to it. If you cannot avoid the storm, find a ditch, ravine or other depression and lie flat. Do not remain in your car. Many people have been killed trying to ride out a tornado in their car.

If no shelter can be found, hang on to the base of a small tree or shrub.

7. Remember that damaged and weakened structures, fallen debris, downed hydro wires, and gas leaks are potential dangers after a storm had passed.
