and offer 30 more students awards to study psychiatry and psychology at the doctoral level, and social work and speech pathology at the master's level.

The bursary program is one of the major recruiting mechanisms used to attract professionals to the north. Students are offered one year of bursary assistance in exchange for one year of practice in the north.

"The North has historically experienced problems with recruiting and retaining professionals," said Chris Ward, Minister of Education. "The expansion of the bursary program is one step. However, we aren't stopping there. Together, our ministries and northern community agencies will be looking at a cooperative planning and recruiting method in the short term. The longer term includes a study of the issues to develop improved methods of recruiting and retaining professionals."

Other features of this model ensure that linguistically appropriate services are available. In designated areas, services will be offered in French. In addition, an inter-ministerial administrative structure will coordinate program development and monitor program operation in cooperation with local community agencies.

The Northern Initiatives for Children with Special Needs will be funded through the Community and Social Services Ministry, $4.17 million this year and $6.2 million annually. Once in place, these initiatives should boost the northern economy by creating professional employment positions.

As the initiatives are developed, community agencies and other ministries will be involved to continue the joint planning and development of services for children with special needs in Northern Ontario.

Passengers evacuate car before flames erupt

Terrace Bay firefighters quickly responded to a car fire last Saturday afternoon at the corner of Highway 17 and Simcoe Street.

Terrace Bay Deputy Fire Chief Rolly MoQuin said the department received the call at approximately 3.40 pm, and arrived on the scene with all their vehicles.

Local police and ambulance attendants were on the scene as well; however, there were no reported injuries. MoQuin said the owner, who was not identified, managed to drive over to the side of the road and evacuate the passengers in the car before it became dangerous.

MoQuin told the News the fire appears to have started as a result of a short underneath the dash, as flames were concentrated between the fire wall and dash board.

MoQuin did not give an estimate of damage, but the car is considered to be completely useless. This is the first automobile fire the department has responded to this year.

New guide for newcomers

Two new, updated versions of the Newcomers Guide To Services in Ontario are now available in Spanish and English, and Chinese and English, Minister of Citizenship and Minister Responsible for Race Relations Gerry Phillips announced today.

The guide contains information about services provided by all three levels of government and by community agencies to meet the needs and interests of newcomers, Mr. Phillips said.

"This is a very useful handbook which explains such basic information as how to use a telephone directory and public telephone, how to find a job, how to enrol a child in school and how to get a driver's licence."

Other information covers basic facts about employment, education and housing as well as general information on health insurance, family allowance and how to obtain a social insurance number.

"We owe much to the thousands of people from many lands including South American, Hong Kong, Spain and China who have come and made their home in Ontario," Mr. Phillips said.

"We look forward to the continued participation of newcomers in the life of their communities and Ontario."

Corrections

In last week's issue, it was incorrectly stated that Air Canada donated a return trip to Minneapolis to the Terrace Bay Mixed Bonspiel. In fact, Air Ontario donated the prize.

The News incorrectly identified Councillor Bob Krause of the Schreiber Township Council as Ed Krause. The News apologizes for the errors and any resulting inconvenience.
