

Cochrane lawyer announces northern riding candidacy

The Cochrane-Superior Progressive Conservative Association has its first candidate for the nomination in the Riding of Cochrane-Superior, which extends from Cochrane up to Nipigon and includes Moosonee, Moose Factory and other far north communities.

John Rogers, a 33-year-old Cochrane lawyer with the firm Karam, Rogers & Lanthier, has indicated his intention to seek the nomination.

Mr. Rogers was born and raised in Windsor, Ontario and spent two years in Toronto before settling in the town of Cochrane in 1983. Since that time, he has been actively involved in the community, and for the past year and a half has been the President of the Cochrane Board of Trade.

"There is great opportunity here in the North for people to live a quality lifestyle. We need a member of Parliament on the side of the government, working with the government to maintain and promote our viability," said Rogers.

"I am pleased to seek the nomination and I hope to represent this riding in Parliament following the next election," he added.

Glen Agar, the president of the riding association, expects that nomination meetings will be held in late July at several centres throughout the riding.
