Concert series alive

The Terrace Bay/Schreiber Concert Series is alive and well.

We met May 9 to discuss the possibility of bringing in a play to town entitled Big Girls Cry sometime in November, 1989.

Big Girls Cry is a one woman play written and performed in one act by Heather Esdon. The play, using a light comic tone, explores the situation of Faith Monaghan, an actress "with a shape not normally found in fashion magazines," as she prepares for an audition.

Her insecurities and recollections give a human perspective on the themes of stereotyping and self-acceptance.

If this play is successful, more entertainment will be brought in during the spring of 1990.

We need the communities participation to make this series a success.

If anyone is interested in being on the committee call Heather De Cal at 825-9584.

Thank you

The Terrace Bay Ringette Association would like to thank all those who sponsored, donated or who helped in any way during tournaments or generally throughout the past year. Your help was greatly appreciated.

Hope to see you all at our July 1st Barbecue at the beach.
