

Schreiber rec news Practise patience when new pup comes home

Schreiber Minor Hockey is now gearing up for another season. We ask that anyone interested in a position as coach, manager, trainer or assisting in any way forward in writing their request to Ian Fummerton, President of Schreiber Minor Hockey, P.O. Box 603 in Schreiber stating in what capacity you wish to serve and your qualifications.

Please watch for posters and listen to CFNO for information regarding registrations.

By Alice Scott

There's a new member in your family. He's cute, cuddly and very active.

The kids love him and he loves change if you do not raise your puppy the correct way.

Until a puppy has had all his shots, he should not venture outside your backyard. This sometimes causes problems with your puppy's temperament.

any animal can become withdrawn or shy if not socialized.

The first few days in your home is an enormous adjustment time for your pup.

He has been isolated from his mother, litter mates and his first human environment. Once he has adjusted to your family and household it is important that you help him adjust to the outside world and to other humans.

If you don't have any children in your household then ask friends to bring their children to play with your puppy.

Always supervise any activity between a child and the puppy, since children can be cruel without realizing it.

By the age of three months he should have all his shots and is ready to expand his horizons.

Make a point of bringing your puppy to crowded areas, such as a park or downtown area.

Talk to your puppy and reassure him if he is nervous or shy with anyone. Keep your voice light and do not get upset if your pup shys away from someone.

Keep on trying, eventually he will realize that no one will hurt him.

Bring cookies or a favorite toy with you. When he feels insecure use these items to get his attention on you and not whatever he is afraid of.

At three months of age think about putting him in an obedience class. He will become adjusted easier to dogs and people by attending classes every week, and you will learn how to help him over his insecurities.

THANK YOU

We would like to thank our dear family and relatives for the "Surprise Anniversary Party" you held for us.

A special thanks for the lovely gifts we received and the delicious lunch that was served.
