French Immersion

believing that French is going to be an advantage in the future in order for their four year old to get a job later. In the meantime, the children are learning to speak French, according to a Professor at Simon Fraser University in B.C. French is a jargon that is uncorrectable when learned very young.

If parents wish to be brain-washed instead of investigating the truth, that's one thing, but please consider what you are doing to your small children. Cost is a big factor concerning the implementation of the French language, but destroying the future potential of your children because of the coercing of a dying language on them is pathetic to say the least (French is 12th in spoken languages of the world!).

Your guess is as good as mine as to why our French Nationalists government is financing their own interests at the expense of our innocent children.

When a language must be legislated to make the people learn it, there is something drastically wrong somewhere!
