The Junior and Senior Kindergarten classes from St. Martin School visited the Terrace Bay Police Force and Fire Hall on May 3rd as part of Education Week.

Volunteer Fireman Graham Bursey showed the shiny firetrucks and station to the youngsters who found the siren fascinating but very loud. At the Terrace Bay Police station, secretary Joanne gave the students a tour of the offices. She showed them the computers and introduced them to Chief Don Kidder.

Police Chief Kidder explained to the kids, "You don't have to be afraid of a police uniform."

Constable Ralph Polches showed them just how friendly the local police are when his turn came along to finish the tour.

"Some of the children were a little scared of coming to visit the police," one of the teachers remarked. Constable Polches made the children feel at ease and almost all wanted to have the chance to have one of their fingers printed to take home as a souvenir of the trip.

The children were shown the breathalyzer and ALERT machines and received an explanation on the use of both.

The police cruisers seemed to be of special interest. A few of the children were lucky enough to sound the siren in the police car.

Schreiber/Terrace Bay to receive $440,660 from Community Futures

IN MEMORIAM

ARSENAULT, FERGUSON - In loving memory of Louis Arsenault and Jamie Ferguson.

*So many things have happened
Since you were called away
So many things to share with you
Had you been left to stay
Everyday in some small way
Memories of you come our way
Though absent, you are ever near.*

Sadly missed & remembered by Shauna Wellington.

The Honorable Otto Jelinek, Minister of National Revenue announced on behalf of Employment and Immigration Minister Barbara McDougall that $440,660.00, for the funding of various options under the Community Futures program of the Federal Government's Canadian Job Strategy, has been approved for the Schreiber/Terrace Bay/Rosspport area.

Schreiber/Terrace Bay/Rosspport was selected for Community Futures assistance in October, 1986.

"Under one of the options, a Business Development Centre, known as the Superior North Business Development Centre, is entering its second year of operation. Continued funding will enable the centre to assist in the establishment, expansion, and stabilization of small businesses which will help encourage long-term employment in the area," Mr. Jelinek said.

"In its first ten months of operation, the Superior North Business Centre created 10 full-time and 15 part-time jobs," Mr. Jelinek said.

"Funding under the Self-Employment Incentive option will provide a stimulus for unemployed persons to test their entrepreneurial skills and demonstrates the commitment of the Federal Government to assist small business and create full-time, meaningful jobs," Mr. Jelinuk added.

Community Futures helps communities hard hit by layoffs or unemployment and help individuals adjust to their economic environment.

Ontario hunters gear up for moose hunting

Anyone wishing to hunt adult moose in Ontario this fall should submit applications to the Ministry of Natural Resources by Tuesday, May 15 to be included in the annual computerized draw.

Success full applicants will receive one of the 31,492 adult validation tags available in this year's draw.

"The selective harvest program is a balanced way to manage the moose population without taking away traditional hunting opportunities," Natural Resources Minister Lyn McLeod said. "By limiting the harvest of adult moose, especially cows, the system is designed to replenish Ontario's moose herds."

The total number of tags allocated this year has been reduced by eight per cent across the province compared with 1989 because of higher-than-anticipated hunter success rates last year.

Both the provincial moose population and hunter success rates have increased since 1983, when MNR introduced the selective harvest program. The moose population has increased to more than 120,000 animals from 80,000. The ministry's target is 160,000 animals by the year 2000. Factors contributing to increased hunter success rates include the introduction of party hunting for adult moose, improved hunter education, advances in hunting equipment and increased access to previously inaccessible areas.

Under the program, hunters apply for the chance to hunt adult moose in 69 Wildlife Management Units across the province. Hunters are encouraged to apply in more remote areas where there are fewer applicants and a greater chance of receiving a tag.

There are no changes in the method used for allocating bull and cow tags this year. However, the Minister is reviewing the allocation process with a view to improving the distribution of adult tags.

A proposed improvement for the 1991 season is the implementation of the group application system. This proposal is in response to hunters' concerns that under the current system, some groups may receive four or five tags, while others may receive none.

"After recent consultations with the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, we are considering implementing a provincewide group application system next year to more fairly distribute tags among hunting parties," Mrs. McLeod said.

Last year's draw statistics and detailed information on 1990 quotas are included in the 1990 Moose Hunter Fact Sheet available at MNR district offices and license issuers.

Licenses are required to hunt all moose, and hunters must enter the computerized draw to take bull or cow moose. The licenses are on sale now at ministry offices and other outlets across the province.

Moose hunting seasons open across most of the province on October 6, 1990.

Applications for the draw are attached to 1990 moose hunter licenses. To be eligible for the draw, applications must be received by 5 p.m. Tuesday, May 15, 1990. Hunters can send their applications to the address printed on the form or drop them off at MNR's Public Information Centre, 99 Wellesley Street West, Queen's Park, Toronto, or at any MNR district office.
