"Gone Fishin'" - you'll be seeing those words everywhere now that the warm weather is here. Sport fishing is one of the most popular pastimes in Ontario, with well over three million anglers honing their skills on the lakes, rivers, and streams across the province.

Ontario has superb sport fishing throughout the province, and it is a major source of revenue for the tourism industry. Anglers can match their wits against a variety of species, including walleye, rainbow trout, brook trout, brown trout, lake trout, salmon, perch, suckers, bass, pike, and the mightiest fighter of them all, the muskellunge.

Habitat--it's the key

Fisheries management in Ontario comes under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Natural Resources. Underlying all MNR's stewardship efforts is the attempt to achieve sustainable development.

The ministry is attempting to manage streams, rivers and lakes so that they can satisfy Ontarians' desire for healthy water system and wholesome fish to eat, but also provide jobs and income and a variety of recreational opportunities.

The principles that will guide fisheries management in Ontario in the 1990's and beyond include an emphasis on habitat protection and rehabilitation, but the full range of management tools includes scientific research, public information and education, stocking, licensing and the enforcement of regulations.

Paying attention to habitat and using a mix of management techniques have already resulted in many fish community successes, among these is Lake Superior: How do you bring back the wild strains of lake trout in Lake Superior? MNR's answer: give them some breathing room. The ministry did that by limiting the harvest of lake trout, shortening the season and by increasing the stocking of nursery lake trout to take the pressure off their wild cousins. A successful program to control sea lamprey also helped. Today in Lake Superior wild strains of lake trout are beginning to re-appear, and anglers are hooking wild lake trout from one end of Superior to the other.

New Season- new regulations

The 1990 trout season is off and running. this year, new regulations, including a reduction in the daily aggregate catch limit to five trout and salmon, have been put in place to help reduce fishing pressure on fragile socks.

"Anglers should contact their local MNR district offices for more info on these regulation changes.

By following these regulations, you will help ensure that sport fishing in Ontario remains among the finest in the world, and that the greeting of "Good fishing!" will be heard throughout the province for years to come.

Disability Action Group

Unanimously re-elected President for 1990-91 term of office, Shirley Mikus welcomed members Thursday to the annual meeting of the Disability Action Group. To serve on the executive also will be Pat Auger- first vice-president; Rod Thompson- second vice-president; Elizabeth McLean- recording secretary; Peggy Thompson- corresponding secretary; Pam Jones- treasurer; Irene Kettle- membership; Gertrude Cotton- Publicity; Peggy Thompson- sick and visiting; Pat Merkley- scrapbook;

Alma Hart- social; and Mary Middaugh and Irene Kettle- public relations. Nominations and election of officers were conducted by Mary Middaugh.

Annual Committee reports and the President's report showed another year of high profile in all its projects.

Looking towards Canada Day activities and the Fall Fair, DAG will make a changeover from balloons to lollipops for children. Pat Auger will attend the Canada Day Planning meeting and report
