

Carolyn's Critique

By Carolyn Williams
 "Family Business" Rated 'R'
 Starring: Sean Connery, Dustin Hoffman, Matthew Broderick.

This is a story of a family. Jessie (Connery) the grandfather; Vito (Hoffman) the father; and Adam (Broderick) the son. But this is not your average family. Jessie is a lifetime criminal. He has pulled robberies and scams all his life and he has involved his son Vito to the point where Vito did time.

Vito grew up and distanced himself from his father. Now Vito's son Adam is a man. He resents his father always pushing him farther into a safe education and job without asking Adam what he wants to do with his life.

Adam wants some excitement. He has teamed up with a fellow at a chemical plant to pull off a scam. He asks Jessie for help (Who naturally gives it). Together they convince Vito to join in.

They are trying to steal vials containing a special plazmod and the formula ledger, which are worth millions.

The way is filled with trial and error, love and hate, success and failure. When it seems that the three men are going to make it together, fate strikes a mean blow. One of them is arrested. What happens next is a test of wills and the strength of family love.

Adam and Vito both agree that the most fun they had was the caper. Now, I don't advocate pulling a scam together, but I do think that this movie shows us how to keep a family together. You need fun for that. If you never share laughter and good times, your sense of self and others stagnates. You must enjoy life and others. Parents note: there is quite a bit of swearing in this movie.

I give Family Business a "7".
 "Sea of Love" Rated "R"
 Starring Al Pacino, Ellen Barkin, and John Goodman.

There is a murderer loose in New York City (surprise, surprise. But this one is different. Two men have been shot in the back as they lay naked while the record "Sea of Love" is playing (hence the title). Who is committing these murders?

Well, Detectives Keller (Pacino) and Sherman (Goodman) are determined to find out. Each had one of the murders committed in his district, so they team up. They discover that both victims placed a rhyming ad in a singles magazine. While they are investigating this avenue, another man who also placed a rhyming ad, is murdered in the same way as the first two.

So Keller and Sherman decide to place their own ad and check out all the women who respond.

This sounds simple, but before it is all over, the two detectives will be led on a wild chase of mind games, twists and turns, fear, desire, and psychological terror. Just when you think you've figured out who the killer is, another twist pops up. This movie challenges your powers of deductive reasoning just as it does the detectives.

There is a lot of gratuitous nudity in this movie that I felt was not necessary to the development of the story. But other than that, I did enjoy this movie. I give Sea of Love a 6 1/2.
