Ghosts, goblins & witches collect coins for UNICEF on Hallowe'en

Be on the look-out this Hallowe'en for ghosts, goblins and warty-nosed witches carrying the familiar orange UNICEF box.

Beneath those costumes are the Terrace Bay Girl Guides, Brownies and Sparks. About 50 girls will be collecting for the UNICEF Hallowe'en campaign for the second year.

This year, 1990, is International Year of Literacy and UNICEF has taken an active role in working towards developing a plan to achieve education for all children.

Funds raised through the the Hallowe'en campaign will allow UNICEF to supply more schools houses, train teachers and buy supplies for children in developing nations.

Last year children across Canada raised more than $3.5 million by carrying their orange UNICEF boxes on October 31.

The Girl Guides, Brownies and Sparks will be out between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m.
