Life according to Baba

no place to go, nothing to do except prowling these malls as their only source of human contact. And so many families are so bored with each other that they, too, seek the distraction and diversion of the shopping malls to fill their empty lives. It's not the shopping they want. It's the human contact.

Pitiful but true, and a most definite comment on the barrenness of our lives when we cannot spare even one day of the week in which to contemplate, and give thanks, for those things of life which cannot be stuffed in a shopping cart.

Caccamo Joe

In Loving Memory of a dear husband, father, "Special Bappa", who passed away April 14, 1990.

One year has passed by since you were called away
Faces, places, laughs, things we have done remain crystal clear to shine in the light of what you left,
A wonderful image that makes us strong.
Each day you touch our lives in some way,
We sadly wish for another chapter but accept instead your gift of wise direction that special love to cherish.

Loved and remembered by wife Penny, Greg and Patti, Debby and John, and your special grandchildren.
