Low-rise Rehabilitation by-law.

Low-Rise Rehabilitation is an Ontario Ministry of Housing program administered by municipalities.

It offers landlords forgivable loans of up to $5,000 per unit to help them upgrade apartments in buildings of less than five storeys that are at least 25 years old. The buildings must contain two or more rental apartments.

The program is designed to help landlords upgrade the physical condition of the buildings while retaining its suitability for low and moderate income tenants.
