the four western Canadian provinces.

"Last year the tour went from Vancouver to Winnipeg in just five months," said Bileck.

"This year we're spending that much time just in Ontario."

Although the authentic Stanley Cup is part of the tour, Bileck said the Canada Cup being displayed is actually a much lighter replica.

"The real one is pure nickel and was cast at Inco in Sudbury," he said.

Intrepid snowmobiler

Even the best trails can be destroyed by excessive traffic.

If there are simply more snowmobiles than there is snow and/or resources, then the trails will not be perfect. If too many snowmobilers without OFSC trail permits trespass on the trail, then it will deteriorate because there won't be enough money to groom as much as the trail use demands.

In effect, these interlopers are robbing legitimate snowmobilers of their good trails.
