

New clubhouse managers at Aguasabon Golf Club

by Darren MacDonald
The News

Some people have a funny idea of retirement.

Marie and Richard Legacy for example. After 39 years, Richard retired from Domtar in 1990, and Marie retired from her job in the dietary department at the Nipigon District Memorial Hospital.

But instead of heading for the golf course to relax, they went to the Northshore Golf Club in Nipigon to manage it.

Two years later, they're about to take over as clubhouse managers at the Aguasabon Golf Club in Terrace Bay.

"We got restless," says Marie, when asked why they didn't stay retired. "You get bored stiff if you're not doing anything."

They spent one year at the Nipigon course, which Richard describes as "a great learning experience."

"We were green at the Northshore Club," he says. "We had never managed a golf course before."

Last year the Legacys, who also used to run a drive-in restaurant in Nipigon, moved to Thunder Bay to try and take their retirement a bit more seriously.

But when the job at the golf course in Terrace Bay opened up, they were lured out of retirement again, since this is where daughter Janet and son-in-law Bill Caron live.

"That's probably why we're here," says Richard.

Golf club president Mike Moore says having the Legacys here should be good for the club.

"We feel very fortunate to have them," says Moore.

Education week

has taken the "Make it Work with Education" theme and combined it to mean not only career aspirations, but also an opportunity to discuss and promote national unity.

A "Promote Canada Day" will include special displays on Canada and a "red and white" day.

A student/staff baseball game is also planned.

Among the events planned at Holy Angels School is a production of The Wizard of Oz, a jump rope for Heart, and an Environmental Day.

Its Education Week message emphasizes the importance of obtaining an education, and the importance of the partnership between the school, family and parish.

Events at Lake Superior

High School include a grade 8 orientation, a presentation by Minnova Mines to tech students, and a NSSSAA Soccer Tournament.

Krentz convicted

calls from the Terrace Bay Schreiber News.

However, a story in the Times News April 28 quotes Godin as saying that "there was something (done) here that just wasn't right."

Krentz was sentenced in the provincial division of the Ontario Supreme Court, and was given three months to pay the fine. He's now a farmer in Delhi, Ont.
