

Sunday shopping

Some area businesses are still waiting to hear from their head offices.

"I have no idea (whether or not we'll start opening on Sundays)," says Northern Stores Manager Ron Brown. "I haven't heard anything from my head office, so I really couldn't tell you."

Nancy Burrows, manager of Robinson Stores, says that the decision on opening on Sundays will most likely depend on what other businesses do.

"I haven't heard anything yet, so I really don't know," she says. "But it will depend on what the other businesses do, and on what instructions I receive. . . But before Christmas, when we were allowed to open on Sundays, we just went with the other businesses.

There were only two Sundays when we had to open whether (the rest of the businesses) were open or not."

For his part, Tony Costa says Costa Food Market has no plans to start opening on Sunday, because the demand just isn't there.

"We stay open an extra hour or two on Thursday nights and nobody shows up," he says.

New crown corporation

Ontario Transportation Minister Gilles Pouliot has tabled a bill in the legislature to create a new crown corporation to be responsible for all aspects of road safety and driver vehicle licensing by fall of 1993.

"The Ontario Road Safety Corporation will bring together a powerful new coalition interest to improve safety and reduce collisions—saving lives and reducing injuries", said Pouliot.

The Ontario Road and Safety Corporation Act will create the Ontario Road Safety Corporation, a key component in the government's comprehensive strategy for auto insurance reform and improved road safety.

"The high cost of auto insurance in Ontario is directly related to accident claims," said Pouliot.

"The Ontario Road and Safety Corporation's mandate is to reduce the overall number of collisions through better driver education and safety programs. Fewer collisions and insurance claims could keep insurance premiums down..

"But reducing collision and their costs requires attention to more than just driver behavior," Pouliot said. "The new safety corporation will work to improve the driving environment by making recommendations on such things as
