inflation, while other ministries have received huge funding boosts.

"Our warnings have been ignored by government, and now we have the people responsible for stopping poaching and the destruction of habitat telling us there's a crisis," Morgan said. "The horror stories are just beginning to come out. And it's sure to get much worse if the government doesn't realize the importance of fish and wildlife resources to this province's history." Conservation officers say that more than ever, poachers and illegal developers are getting away with crimes.
