Community Action Fund

 tions like the Association across the province. Grants are given for qualifying projects that promote the equality, integration and independence of people with disabilities.

"These community organizations provide vital advocacy, education and support services to people with disabilities," says Elaine Ziembra, Minister of Citizenship with responsibility for Disability Issues. "They need the provinces help, and they're getting it."

"Accessibility in terms of the home, the work place and transportation is one of the most important concerns facing people with disabilities," said Gilles Pouliot, Minister of Transportation and MPP for Lake Nipigon. "I think it's important this region has a group like this focusing attention on issues like these."

The 1992/93 allocation for the Community Action Fund is more than $1.5 million. The next deadline for application is January 13, 1993.

Politicians don't have all the answers not have all the answers. By voting "no" October 26, we've implied that we do. The time has come to spell out what we will say "yes" to.

The national celebration over the victory of the Toronto Blue Jays proves that Canadians do have a winning spirit. The defeat of the Charlottetown Accord proves that top-down solutions, however well crafted they might have been, won't be accepted. Let's start at the local level to see what we can agree with over the back fences and in the community halls of Northern Ontario. From that, we can rebuild this wonderful paradox called Canada.

 And we are not told whose gift was gold
 Or whose was the gift of myrrh...
