Terrace Bay considering switch to propane

In an effort to save money on its fuel costs, Terrace Bay is looking into converting all of its vehicles to run on either just propane, or on propane and gasoline.

The township has written to ICG, a propane gas company, to get a proposal on the specifics of converting. The company will give their opinion on whether or not it would be worthwhile to convert some of the townships older vehicles, since they may be replaced soon. They will also provide information on the price per litre of propane, the cost of installing the propane tank to fill the vehicles, etc.

If they decide to convert to natural gas, the township would purchase propane conversion kits for their gasoline-powered vehicles.

Township Engineer Mikkonen says it would be particularly cost-effective for the Terrace Bay Police's vehicles, since they run 24 hours a day.

He also said that if they do decide to go with propane, in the future they would probably buy vehicles already equipped to run on natural gas.

Terrace Bay Police statistics

In August and September, the Terrace Bay Police Services investigated a total of 219 occurrences, including 63 reports of bear sightings.

They laid 144 traffic-related charges, including 117 in August alone.

The Terrace Bay Police reported 704 total occurrences to the end of September for 1992, compared with 883 at the same point last year.

Other statistics for August and September include 18 cases of welfare assistance, two impaired driving charges, one assault charge, and 12 incidents involving municipal bylaws, with two charges being laid.
