New pedestrian law now in effect

If drivers don't allow that pedestrian to fully cross certain roadways, they could be fined. Under the Making Ontario's Roads Safer Act, a new law requires drivers to be more patient and alert when driving through busy pedestrian intersections. As of Jan. 1, 2016, drivers in Ontario have to wait until a pedestrian has reached the other side of a designated school crossing or pedestrian cross-over or face a possible fine of $150-$500 and three licence demerit points. Fines are doubled in designated Community Safety Zones. Drivers now have to yield the entire width of the road to pedestrians instead of half the road, as was previously the case. Cyclists must follow the same rules as drivers under the Highway Traffic Act; they must stop and wait for the pedestrian to cross or face the same fine. The new rule applies to pedestrian crossovers identified with specific signs, road markings and lights. It does not apply to pedestrian crosswalks at intersections with stop signs or traffic signals, unless a school crossing guard is present. For more information, visit <http://www.mto.gov.on.ca>.
