

Midsummer market at Coronation

Oakville's Centre for Education and Training is inviting newcomers to Canada to A Midsummer's Night Market, where they can learn about community resources available to them.

The event, held at Coronation Park on Saturday, Aug. 21, is presented by the centre's Youth Exchange Program.

"It's an event geared for newcomers, to help them feel more connected to their community," said Holly Zapreff, outreach and event specialist for the centre.

The Youth Exchange Program consists of young volunteers who work with the centre.

"The youth volunteers, some of them are newcomers themselves, some of them were born in Canada, some of them have been here three, four years, and it was them who planned this event," said Zapreff.

The event will feature exhibits and cultural performances. The exhibits will highlight a range of businesses that provide things such as daycare or music lesson studios. Various other community services will also be represented.

The performances will include a drumming circle, a fashion show geared to youths who want to learn how to dress in Canada, an African dance show, belly dancing and musical groups.

The centre expects some 150 to 200 people to show up to the event.

"Our hope is that (the participants) are able to get connected with the resources that are available in the community, get to know what's out there," Zapreff said.

The event runs from 4 to 8 p.m. People can drop in and leave at their will, but the first 100 people to register in advance will receive a free gift bag.

To register contact Zapreff at hzapreff@tcet.com or by calling 905-875-3851 ext. 5020. Coronation Park is located south of Lakeshore Rd. W., just east of Third Line.
