The night previous to his leaving between forty and fifty of the young people gathered at his home to spend their last evening with him for a while at least. The G F B Club presented him with an address and silver watch as a slight token of remembrance of the many pleasant times he has spent with them. The following is a copy of the address: Mr. W. G. Gleeson. Dear Friend-We have gathered here this evening to express our regrets that you have decided to leave us for the far dis tant town under the Stars and Stripes, and to assure you that you take with you our very earnest wishes for your welfare and happiness. We also beg of you to accept this small present, and we know you will prize the gift for its associations, not for its intrinsic value, for it represents feelings and sentiments which time and distance can neither change nor dim. Let it remind you of the high esteem in which the givers hold your character and remember it is a spontaneous offering of time attachment and regard. We can not say good bye without regret, and there is a tarewell to you in each of our hearts more eloquent than the lips of any of us can utter, so we close this feeble attempt to express our feelings by wishing you a safe and pleasant journey to your destination, and sincere hope that you may sometime return to us with your heart and health the same as when you leave us Signed on behalt of the GFB Club. Constable Goodman had his keen suspicions aroused one evening this week, when he noticed two rather small boys accompanied by a much larger one, enroute westward, and upon enquiry they stated Toronto was their destination. After much cross questioning it was ascertained that the larger boy was leading the others to Toronto away from their home at Port Hope. The former evidently was a member of the amateur tramp organization from Rochester, N. Y. Constable Goodman took charge of the two smaller boys and made the necessary arrangements for their return to their parents at Port Hope. The larger one upon the advice of Station Master Kain, started on the run towards Toronto along the base line.

Kickapoos Kick-a-poohed. Detective Wasson, of the Ontario Medical Council, paid a visit to Port Perry on a fishing (?) excursion and to Manchester on a medical hunt on July 20th, and with a go-between got "Prof." Fred Lexington to diagnose their peculiar ailments (?) and of course Prof. Lexington understood their illness and prescribed Kickapoo Sacqua. Prof. Lexington was taken by surprise when Chief Constable McKnight visited his wigwam and handed him a piece of blue paper respectfully requesting the pleasure of his company before Magistrate Nott last Friday ofternoon. At the appointed time a small audience assembled at the town hall, and among those present were the magistrate, Crown Attorney Farewell. who prosecuted for the detective, Lawyer Ebbels for the defence, Detectives Wasson and Boyd, and his go-between Thomas and a score of visitors. It was plainly seen that when the detective and his witness had given their evidence that the "Prof." had no defence. After a consultation between the lawvers, detectives and defendant, it was agreed that the Prof was to plead guilty and ask for the leniency of the court on account at a first offence. The order of the court was that Prof. Fred Lexington be fined $25 and $4.90 costs, which were forthwith paid. Altogether the trial cost the Kickapoos $35. From this out Prof. Lexington will be rather chary of giving advice to people with pretended illness.
