

The Dog in the Manger.

Early apples were being pared by Mrs. Miller for sauce. Mr. Miller, with a newspaper spread on the carpet at his feet, was scraping with a piece of glass an axe-handle to a desired smoothness, while Bessie, the five-year-old daughter of the house, stood with a kitten in her arms watching her father at his work.

The sitting room, with its brightly striped rag carpet, its splint bottomed chairs, and the new white curtains at the windows was a cheerful looking place, and its three occupants were as comfortable appearing persons as one could wish to see.

Suddenly Mrs. Miller, with a half-pared apple in one hand and holding a knife threateningly in the other, exclaimed: "If there is another in the world I despise it is a dog in the manger, so it is."

Mr. Miller looked up enquiringly. "Why, Martha, what do you mean?"

"Just what I said," she answered sharply. "The dog in the manger; I'd like to know what else you'd call a fellow that hangs around a girl keeping every other young man away, and hasn't courage enough to speak out and—"

Here she was interrupted by the opening of the door near her which led to the kitchen, with a clear sweet voice asked if the apple were ready.

"Just about," said Mrs. Miller, deftly finishing the last one, and handing the pan containing them to the owner of the voice. This was Mrs. Miller's young sister, and a pretty picture she made with her sleeves rolled above her elbows, when dinner time came and the baskets were unpacked it was Lucinda who must superintend the arrangements.

Joe vainly tried to get near her. Dr. Grey was gracefully unconscious of being in anybody's way, and managed somehow to be of so much assistance in unpacking dishes and rescuing pies and cakes from perilous places, that all the girls were calling on him for advice and help. And when dinner time came and the baskets were unpacked it was Lucinda who must superintend the arrangements.

ause she makes pie for supper, and oh, Joe, she laughed at Dr. Grey, an' mamma Jess scolded her.

Joe's conscience pricked him, though his heart gave a glad bound, and he turned Prince around saying, "I expect Aunt Lucinda is ready now. Let us see how fast Prince can go."

Lucinda was at the gate as they drove up, and Bessie was lifted out laughing merrily and insisted on kissing Joe good bye and telling him "not to run off with Aunt," tause she looked so nice in her new dress.

"Nice!" thought Joe. "She looks like an angel," and such a feeling of unworthiness came over him that he scarcely lifted his eyes, and lifted the "angel" into the buggy so awkwardly that her dress caught on the step and she almost fell into his arms.

She laughed, however, saying "It seems I can never get into a buggy with out trouble. I do wish I was not so clumsy," and Joe, without a word, seated himself by her side and drove off grim as a statue.

Neurasthenia.

Weakened Nerves and Nervous Diseases Are Cutting Off Thousands.

Paine's Celery Compound Makes Nervous People Well and Strong.

Health is the first and most important thing in this life of ours. Health is a blessing far beyond our computation; it is vastly more important than wealth or great social distinction.

One of the most dreaded troubles of the present day is nervousness. It is generally acknowledged that nervous diseases are growing alarmingly prevalent in our midst.

The causes that lead to Neurasthenia, or weakness of the nerves, are many. Business cares, feverish haste after riches, social and household worries, sexual and alcoholic excesses all contribute to the breaking down and physical ruin of thousands of men and women.

In words of truth and soberness we set before the sick and afflicted the claims of Paine's Celery Compound as a quick relief and certain cure for all forms of nervous diseases. It is a perfect restorer of nerve force and power to the weakened and debilitated system. Prominent men and women, all over the country, have renewed their lives and kept their places in business and in society by using Paine's Celery Compound. In all large cities, where nervous diseases are most frequently seen, the best physicians prescribe Paine's Celery Compound with immense success.

The following letter from Mrs. Alfred Perry, Port Maitland, N.S., proves that Paine's Celery Compound has no equal for the cure of nervous diseases in whatever form they may present themselves:

"For two years my system was all run down, and I suffered more than I can describe from nervous prostration and in somnia; at times I almost lost my reason from severe pain at base of the brain. My husband advised me to try Paine's Celery Compound, which I did, and the effects were wonderful. I soon began to sleep well, the pain left my head, my whole system was strengthened, and I am now enjoying very good health."

"I would cheerfully recommend Paine's Celery Compound to any one suffering from like troubles. You have my best wishes for the future success of your excellent remedy."

Never in the history of the Thorah Agricultural Society has their annual show been so successful as the one held on Tuesday last. The morning seemed somewhat threatening but before noon the sky having cleared up, strings of rigs could be seen coming in on each road, and by three p.m., nearly 1000 people had passed into the grounds. The exhibits were all of a splendid quality, but especially so in the horse class, a large number of magnificent animals being on the ground, the principal exhibitor being Mr. T. O. Hodgkinson, of "Simcoe Lodge," who showed nine splendid horses. The hall too was well worthy of mention, there being a fine exhibit of ladies' work, domestic, etc.—Gleaner.

Dear Mr. Editor.—Will you kindly inform the readers of your valuable paper that I will gladly send FREE to any sufferer from Lost Manhood, Nervous Debility, Night Losses, Varicose, Impotency and the results of youthful folly, particulars of a simple and inexpensive means of self-cure which after being humbugged and imposed upon for years by quacks and patent medicine sharks, cured me in a few weeks. I have nothing to sell or give away, nor am I advertising any patent medicine business; but will be pleased to hear from any sufferer anxious to find a cure for his complaint, to whom I will explain confidentially how and by what means I was cured. Hundreds have been cured through my advice. Costs nothing to learn what I said hundreds of dollars to find out. Address confidentially and enclose stamp if convenient.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is rest neither day or night until the nerves are all unstrung.
