Mr. Jas. E. Nicholson, Florenceville, N. B., Struggles for Seven Long Years with

CANCER ON THE LIP, AND IS CURED BY AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Mr. Nicholson says: "I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose, the cancer began to eat into the flesh, spread to my chin, and I suffered in agony for seven long years. Finally, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a week or two I noticed a Decided Improvement. Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore under my chin began to heal. In three months my lip began to heal, and after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."

PICKERING

It is said Isaac Littlejohn has made an assignment to Sheriff Paxton, for the benefit of his creditors. The liabilities are heavy. Several in the village are considerably interested.

We understand that W. O'Leary gets possession of the Woburn hotel on March 8th. He will move his belongings from here about that date.

The fruit evaporator was put up at auction on Tuesday afternoon, but not a single bid was made. Unless they sell it Mahler Bros. will operate the factory next season themselves.

James T. Richardson and wife are here, having been summoned through the illness of their son John, who has been for a time with his grandmother. The youth still remains in a very critical condition.

But few of our people visited Washington Thursday. The anointing of a president may have some interest for those who dwell across the line, but Pickering people have more important business to attend to.

Mr. Lloyd, V.S., who has been made veterinary inspector for West Ontario, was in Claremont on Monday and expressed much surprise that Pickering township had been placed under quarantine, to prevent the spread of sheep scab. He had not been notified of such action, and expressed the belief that there had been some mistake made in issuing the order at Ottawa.

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Varty, when her niece, Miss Maggie Ferguson, and Thomas Jackson, of Michigan, were married in the presence of a few friends. Rev. A. McAuley performed the ceremony. The happy couple left the same evening for their home in Michigan. Both are well known here and they carry with them the best wishes of all for future happiness.

County Councillor Baird, of Scarborough, was in the village on Wednesday and gave us a friendly call. He is of the opinion that unless Pickering assumes the road and bridge at the Rouge, the York council will put on a bridge toll, as well as leave the gate on that is now leased by Mr. Luke. This would lead to much inconvenience, yet such an act by the York men could not be wondered at very much. There will not likely be anything done in the matter, however, until the Lieutenant-Governor in Council passes judgment upon the by-law now under consideration.

After receiving Col. Lazier's report of the post office investigation held a few weeks ago, the Postmaster-General the other day requested J. D. Edgar, M.P. for this riding, to recommend a person for the position. This the member did Monday and his choice was R. A. Bunting. To be sure the official appointment has not yet been made, but it would be very unusual for a government to over-rule the wish of the local member. There were a number of applicants, and naturally those who were unsuccessful feel somewhat annoyed.—News.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with headache. There is rest neither day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be obtained by using Parmentier's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandarins and Dandelion. Mr. Binny Wark, Lyndon, P.Q., writes: "I had Parmentier's Pills a first-class article for headache."

ORILLIA

In the police court this week Mrs. Catharine McDonald was charged with perjury by Constable Lee. The case arose out of a prosecution under the Liquor License Act last fall, when Mrs. McDonald had sworn that she did not sell any liquor between certain dates. The case was dismissed. County Crown Attorney Cotter prosecuted, and Mr. Gunn defended. Norman Broughton pleaded guilty to selling cod oil without a license, and was fined $6 and costs. Mrs. Wm. Clark, whom the town has been supporting for some months, was charged with vagrancy by Constable Dreyer, and was sent to the county goal for six months.

Arch. Fyfe was arrested in Toronto on Thursday, on a charge of forgery, and brought to Orillia on Friday by Constable Geo. Clark. Fyfe had got a joint note for $100, signed by himself and his father-in-law, Mr. Edward Turner, of Medonte, discounted at the Traders bank. When shown the note, Mr. Turner repudiated the signature. The case came up for trial before Police Magistrate Lafferty and Mr. G. J. Booth, J.P., on Tuesday. Mr. Turner then stated that though his son-in-law had no particular authority to sign the note in question, he had frequently empowered him to sign his name. He considered that Fyfe might have thought himself justified in signing his (the witness' name to the note, and he would not have raised any objection if he had known who signed the note. The case was therefore dismissed. County Crown Attorney Cotter appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Gunn for the defence. —Packet.

Heart Disease Strikes Down all Classes.

The Essential Matter is to be Prepared for any Emergency.

It is painful to pick up the daily papers and observe how people of all classes are being stricken down with heart disease and apoplexy. One day it is the farmer in the field, again the laborer carrying his hod or, as this week a prominent architect in Ottawa. Perhaps it is not too strong a statement that 80 per cent. of the people of Canada are afflicted with heart disease to some degree. What a blessing it is then, that there exists a medicine like Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, which is so quick in producing relief. Instantly the patient obtains that ease that is so longed for when the heart is afflicted. There is absolutely no case of heart disease that it will not help, and with few exceptions, will produce a radical cure. Sold by J. E. Willis.

On Two Girl Friends.

FOR THE CHRONICLER.

The friendships, formed towards life's lone end, Can mightily sustain.
Who 'neath Earth's cumbering burdens bend: Lost strength comes back again;
But though force may increase with length Of days, I think that our friendship joined with youth,
No power is equal to the strength Of friendship joined with youth.

Two know I in the flower of years,— Each friendship true is theirs,—
Each her companion's dark hour cheers,
The other's joy each shares;
Of days, I think that our friendship joined with youth,
No power is equal to the strength Of friendship joined with youth.

Their pleasant faces I see,
Upon the crowded street,
Their little know their joys with me
Are shared each time we meet.
Nor care I, though, as by their love,
My form they may not seek,
For those who heedless pass may love
Far more than those who speak.

"Who ever has loved feel pain the least,"
Is true, but yet I know
That friendships 'er should be increased,
And loved be caused to grow;
Tis then that life seems like a song,
Whose notes are good for all.
For friendship maketh short pleasures long,
And makes great sorrows small.

The strong should never blame the weak
Who fall; they still are pure.
In mind, oft more for right they seek,
Than those who less endure.
And often, too, the strong man sighs,
When faults comprise his ends;
Yet faults are virtues in the eyes
Of those we call our friends.

Then let all friends revered well be,
But most those yet in youth,
Who in experience cannot see
So soon the path to truth.
But who, full early, find the guide,
Whose faults to virtue's goal,
Not in experience, but inside
A young companion-soul.

Then in the breasts of these two friends
Love should its image trace;
For though it ne'er high heights ascends,
It spreads across all space.
The friends maketh short pleasures long,
And love's friends faithful will remain,
When fall all needs has known.

O, youth's dear years shall soon have fled,
And youth's affections true,
The future then shall be our bread;
What then for these two?
Some friends there'll be who'll love them well,
Some, who, to hate, may dare;
But none, none, 'er shall those excel,
Who made life's dawn break fair.

Dining Room Plants.

No one quite knows why, but every one does know that the tables ferrieries left persistently in the dining room dry and rust or grow in stinking fashion or otherwise fall of their original beauty very quickly. Florists say gas, furnace air and various things in explanation. It is a good plan to have two or three of these ornamentals growing at once and change them about from an upper room that is not kept at top heat all day to the dining table. In this way the life of all will be much prolonged. Small baskets of the fern dish may hold the duplicates.

Drainage.

The drainage of a road is quite as important as the gravelling, but the best way to obtain this must be one adapted to the nature and elevation of the soil, and the direction and extent of natural watercourses, etc. It is imperative, however, that provision shall be made wherever the soil is in a low or wet location; or is of retentive nature, that it shall be drained both on the surface and below it. Sandy or gravelly soils very frequently do not need sub-drainage while clay always requires it. Unless there is natural sub-drainage, artificial under-drainage must be resorted to.

Considerable has been done in making open drains by the roadsides in most townships, but a great many of these need deepening and cleaning to provide better sub-drainage. A much better practice, however, than having deep open drains, is to use tile placed below front line. These should, wherever practicable, be placed beneath the present open drains on each side of the road. No matter how good the material placed on the surface of a roadway, unless the natural soil beneath is kept dry, the metal is forced down and the mud comes to the surface. When roads in this country are gravelled, they are frequently termed "macadam." The important feature of the road built by Macadam, was the drainage, not the surface covering.

Tile and open drains must be kept free with a good fall to an unobstructed outlet. It is useless to drain water from the roadway and then keep it standing in drains until it soaks into and softens the natural soil under the gravel. At all seasons of the year, particularly spring and fall, when obstructions of snow and ice are likely to occur, the outlets should receive special attention.—Municipal World.

At this moment thousands of men are standing at the cross-roads of life. Death in the guise of a foolish ambition coaxes them to take one road, while health and happiness in the form of wife and children coax them to take the other. For the sake of a few added dollars will they continue to over-work and neglect the commonest precautions for the preservation of health, or will they listen to love and reason and draw back before it is too late? A man may do almost any amount of good, hard work if he will take care of his health and when he feels out of sorts will take the right remedy.

The great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is the hard workers' medicine. It corrects all disorders of the digestion, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones and steadies the nerves. It makes the appetite hearty and brings refreshing sleep. Thousands of hard-workers owe their lives to it and have said so over their signatures. Druggists all sell it and all substitutes are frauds.

"I was taken with erysipelas in my hands and feet to the doctor," writes Mrs. Lena Baumgartner, of Joy, Charlevoix Co., Mich. "He said he could not cure me. He gave me medicine in case he but the disease spread all over my body. I took two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two of the 'Favorite Prescription' and am entirely cured. I have a boy three weeks old. I was bed-ridden for three months before my husband, but after taking the 'Favorite Prescription' was able to do my washing three days before I was confined."

There is scarcely a known form of ill-health that constipation will not cause or aggravate. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are an infallible cure for constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative.

Look Out For The Lambs.

The good shepherd will not neglect to make frequent visits to the sheep fold during the lambing season to receive the newcomers and give them a welcome to a new world. He will not begrudge a little loss of sleep if he has reason to expect an increase in the family during the night. A little self-sacrifice at this time may mean a good deal in the record of success or failure in the results of the season. Regrets are vain, and can do little good when a good lamb has been lost for want of a little attention at the right time. Give the lamb a fair start and he will soon look out for himself and will repay you for any care bestowed upon him.

In connection with the care of the sheep in lambing time, it is well to be provided with a few low hurdles—five or six feet long—for the purpose of making temporary pens to receive the ewe and her newborn lambs till they get acquainted with each other and the lambs learn to help themselves to nourishment, but we would not advise keeping them in these small enclosures many days. The lambs will soon need exercise to keep them in the best of health, and there is danger that in his kindness the shepherd may overfeed the ewe with heating food, which will cloy her appetite or injuriously affect the lamb through her milk. As soon as the lamb will follow its dam it is better for both to run with the other sheep, where the ewe will have the stimulus of competition in working for her feed and will not be liable to get more than enough. The ewes that have lambed should have a pen to themselves, so that they may be more liberally fed than the balance of the flock.

When the lambs are two weeks old they should be provided with a separate enclosure, with a "creep" or hurdle with slats, so that the lambs can pass through and the ewes cannot. Have a low rack and a trough in this enclosure, and feed some clover hay and ground oats and bran. The little fellows will be proud of their pen and soon learn to eat regularly and grow rapidly and will not make as heavy demands upon the ewes as if they were hungry and had nothing but mother's milk to depend on.

"Should assistance be given to a ewe during lambing?" is a question to which, in a general way, we should answer no. In normal cases, no interference should be practiced. Patience should be exercised, and time given the ewe to work out her own deliverance. If, after laboring for an hour or two, she makes no progress, it is well to examine and determine whether the presentation is all right, and, if so, give the ewe more time and she will generally get through all right and be less liable to a after-trouble than if assisted. Many a ewe is ruined and lost by the attendant being too officious. Of course, if the presentation is a false one, assistance should be given, but no unnecessary force should be used, and when the fetus is brought to its natural position the ewe had better be released and allowed a little more time.—Farmers Advocate.
