WHITBY, MARCH 26, 1897

ACCOUNTS

The CHRONICLE starts the year with a goodly increase in its lists, and so far our renewals have been satisfactory. This week we send out renewal notices to as many as we could manage, and hope for a prompt return. It costs money to write out all these accounts, and we wish all to understand that our object is to secure immediate and full remittances. Each person concerned will please note this, as we do not do business for our health.

Short Notes

The powers—or rather the weaknesses—of Europe are having a great time just now superintending a fight which is starting up between Turkey and Greece. "The powers" are afraid that if the little ones get at it they may have to take a hand in it themselves.

The death of "Citizen" Wm Thompson, of East Whitby, makes another gap in the list of this county's true pioneers. For a month past the deceased had suffered from inflammation, being usually calm and submissive to the will of God, which was quite apparent from the first. For forty years the deceased had been a prominent farmer of East Whitby, and had a circle of acquaintances extending into many municipalities. His vigor was great and lasting, being scarcely impaired by advancing age until he reached nearly 80 years.

The argument for contempt of court against Returning Officer G. F. Bruce in connection with the North Ontario election, was heard in Toronto on Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Aylesworth for McLeod argues that Bruce should have obeyed the injunction of Mr. Justice Robertson whether it was within that judge's power to grant it or not, and that showing the injunction to have been illegal does not purge Bruce of contempt. Mr. Macdonald for Bruce argued that his client being an election officer could not be interfered with by the courts in carrying out the election law as he understood it. The decision of the court of appeal is reserved.

No event of recent years appears to have engrossed the minds of both sexes, old and young, like the great fight last week between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. The presence of women at the ringside made it have a more or less social aspect, the evil tendency made it a subject for pulpit declamation, the dangerous nature of the work interested the scientists, the skill of the brutes held every sportsman's attention. Every child that can speak became familiar with the names of the principals. In one division of a Toronto school the lady teacher gave the pupils as part of their home work to copy any picture around their homes or elsewhere. Next morning every boy but two brought the same drawing, taken from an evening paper, being the knockout blow administered to Corbett by Fitzsimmons. Among the peculiar wagers made about the mill was one at Trenton, N. J., where the loser was to eat a stuffed cat, which he did in the presence of about a hundred sports. As if to cap the climax of all the excitement comes the announcement that Fitzsimmons will not more enter the prize ring, and we may look for him to take the roll of Sam Jones, and preach salvation to those who were intensely interested in pugilism but pretended they weren't. There is a great lot of hypocrisy in this world, and a blunt, outspoken pugilist like Fitzsimmons could not see life or preach to a man on any other ground. He has accidentally killed two men in his career, and he is a great hit, but many who stand high in the eyes of the world on account of their great pretended piety have ruined far more people and allowed them to live on in wretchedness where death would be a relief.

Last week's Toronto Saturday Night made another sweeping attack on the departmental stores, showing that they had broken up merchants to the extent of $3,500,000 in the city of Toronto alone. Of course the buildings in which all these closed businesses were carried on are vacated and rendered not only valueless, but a burden of taxation upon the owners. Equally as many residences have been rendered untenable. Dear knowers what happened to the merchants and their clerks and their families, as in almost every instance the department stores hire young men and young ladies at from $1 to $2 per week. Saturday Night estimates that values in land around Whitby and all such towns have been lowered from $30 to $40 per acre by this same agency. Carrying their money all to the city burns the town, and hurting the town kills the farmer's market. This while the farmer has been driving all night to do his marketing in Toronto he has been decreasing the value of his farm by $5,000 or $4,000. Two weeks ago the CHRONICLE estimated that the decrease in values in Toronto and outside caused by department stores would amount to one hundred millions ($100,000,000) and we have no reason to change the figures. The Toronto Daily Paysers take the same course in this matter as in the cases of mining projects. They play to their own pockets. They see the awful havoc that cheapjacks who never sell a first class article are making with honest traders, but they unite in assisting to demolish our towns and cities for the sake of the big sums of money they draw in the way of advertising. All the great newspapers being in the pay of gold mine fakers and cheapjack dealers, there is nobody to fight the battle of the people but the local papers. Saturday Night may be working in vain in asking that every town and county council pitch into the Provincial Legislature in favor of amendments to law dealing with department stores; but the day is soon coming when its efforts will be appreciated, and every day's delay in this matter makes the case worse. There must be legislation in this matter.

MANCHESTER

Mr W H Hayes is quite sick.

Mr D F Hagerman was in Toronto this week on business.

Mr Jas McClintock has returned home from Trinity, having finished his first year's work.

Mr Wm Pearson is quite sick at present. For some time he has not been well, and this sickness may have hard with him. We hope he may soon recover.

Our 1st deputy-revee, W M Weir, leaves this week for Manitoba. Who will take his place on the council board? In all probability there will have to be an election.

The Tennyson estate was sold here on Saturday afternoon. Mr Thaw Tennyson bid in the farm, and afterwards sold out to the side brother, Alonzo, of Udora. Mr Tennyson will likely move here.

Mr Hagerman's dog, Bruno, is dead. The poor old fellow merits recognition here, as he was a most faithful servant. Anyone having a good watch dog for sale would do well to see Mr Hagerman, as he wishes to get one.

Much dissatisfaction was shown here when the Toronto World failed to put in an appearance the next day after the fight. We have some sports here, and they were anxious to see the report. This is not the first time the World has been wanting, but on previous occasions, when most sought for, it would come a day late. The World is a good morning paper, and fast gaining ground here, but if it makes many more such mistakes its cake will be dough.

A scheme is on foot to have a sidewalk built between Manchester and Cawker's corner. A walk is much needed, especially at this time of the year. Of course the work cannot be done without funds and we hope our citizens, and residents along the line, will contribute their share. It is not going to cost much and every effort will be put forth to make it a success. A list of the contributors and amounts received will be acknowledged in these columns from time to time.

A commission, consisting of Messrs Weir, Lamb, Piles and Yarnold, met at the Sink Hole, on 2nd concession, on Monday, to see what was to be done towards keeping the bridge on top. Mr Yarnold gave as his opinion that draining the next thing is, however, it is estimated that large sums of money have been spent on work done there, and the only way we see out of it is to do as Geo Stephenson, the great English pioneer, said, "Keep at it."

PRINCE ALBERT

Mr J Roberts has moved into the residence lately occupied by Mrs Hayes.

Miss Lillian J Bond has gone to Brooklin to regain her health after an attack of the la grippe.

A large number from here attended Mrs J Heard's recital at Manchester Friday evening. We congratulate Misses Wilson, McCulloch, Heard and Glide on their success of rendering their parts so well in the programme, also Messrs Wheeler and Lang.

Last Wednesday evening all the members of the Epworth League assembled at Miss J Medda to present Miss F Jones with a pin as a token of their affection for her. It is with much regret they lose Miss Jones, she being an earnest worker in the league for a number of years.

Fire seems to be a contagious disease in our vicinity lately. Last Thursday evening A D Wheeler was out feeding his stock and by some means or other the lantern was tipped over. Instantly everything was in a blaze and before help came the barn was doomed. The animals were all saved except a number of hens which were burnt.

Monday morning at 11 o'clock the fine brick residence of Mr M Dunlop was totally destroyed by fire. Being that house was not when all had retired there was not many to witness the scene of disaster. It was with useless effort they tried to save it as it was too far gone when help arrived. It is not known how the fire originated.

BOWMANVILLE

Mr Robt. Lawrie, who some time ago, went to Denver, for his health, is so much worse at his brother James left on Sunday night that place, to bring him home.

The next morning after the accident, in which Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Luxton lost their three children by drowning, Mr. Sam Allen started out with a $100,000 policy. Mr. Allen and his wife succeeded in raising $116,700. Mr. and Mrs. Luxton wish to thank the citizens for their genuine expression of sympathy towards them for the many kind acts shown them in their severe trouble.

When the word came on Saturday morning last that Mr T Elliott's dam at Hampton was gone with a rush, a large number of our citizens wended their way to the bridge, at the west end of King street, expecting that as soon as the flood reached here that Mr Vanstone's dam would go also. Fortunately, however, by running all the water off from his pond here, Mr Vanstone managed to keep it under control, and by the time the extra water from Hampton arrived, it was spent that it made scarcely any difference here.—News.

The Jack social at the E L C E was an entire success. The young men proved their capacity not only to furnish an excellent program but also a capital lunch independent of the ladies. They made capital waiters and with their white aprons and caps looked very smart, indeed. While all the program was good, the essay on "Character Building" by Mr R H Stephens deserves the highest praise. The Jills will have to look alive if their program two weeks from next Friday will equal this. The missionary committee are framing a good programme for next Friday.
