Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the surest, safest, quickest cure for constipation. They never gripe. One little pellet is a gentle laxative, and two mild cathartics. Substitutes are sometimes dangerous, and always cause discomfort.

To rear turkeys successfully is not much trouble when they are properly attended to in the most particular time, which is when the young birds are getting their red necks, or at the time of becoming sexually mature.

Mr. Dryden vs. Smith. (Concluded.) Q. Did you charge Mr. Dryden with having sold this office? A. If my words would have that effect, I did.

Q. Why didn't you say in your defence that you could prove the words? A. Prove what words? Q. That he had sold the office. What do you mean? (Mr. Dow submits that he is responsible for that. A. I don't know that it is anybody's business why I didn't.)

Q. You knew you had the opportunity? A. Well I didn't know particularly. Q. Well I didn't know particularly. Q. And you didn't wish to? A. I didn't wish to.

Q. Why didn't you? A. Well I suppose that was my business. Q. You didn't wish to. A. Well I didn't do it.

Q. Because you could not? A. Don't be too sure. (Mr. Dow objects to the question.) Witness: I object to answer that question.

DRYDEN VS. SMITH. (Concluded.)

Q. Did you charge Mr. Dryden with having sold this office? A. If my words would have that effect, I did.

Q. Why didn't you say in your defence that you could prove the words? A. Prove what words? Q. That he had sold the office. What do you mean? (Mr. Dow submits that he is responsible for that. A. I don't know that it is anybody's business why I didn't.)

Q. You knew you had the opportunity? A. Well I didn't know particularly. Q. Well I didn't know particularly. Q. And you didn't wish to? A. I didn't wish to.

Q. Why didn't you? A. Well I suppose that was my business. Q. You didn't wish to. A. Well I didn't do it.

Q. Because you could not? A. Don't be too sure. (Mr. Dow objects to the question.) Witness: I object to answer that question.

Q. Have you ever sited this question as to the Registry office to ascertain the truth of it? (Mr. Dow objects to the question and on the advice of his Counsel the witness refused to answer.)

Q. You say in one of the paragraphs of your defence that you believe that promises were made by the Plaintiff and his political friends that he would, in consideration of services to be done in the said election appoint such persons or some of them to the said office of Registrar of the said office.

Q. Who else? A. That's all I know of. Q. Did you see any of those persons? A. I don't know.

Q. How do you say that both Mr. Henderson and Mr. Willis were the persons referred to? A. I do.

Q. As to having been promised the office and having in consideration of the promise? A. Yes.

Q. Are there any others? A. Is that including the two—the promise and the paying of the money? A. Yes.

Q. Are those the only ones to whom you refer to in your defence? A. Yes.

Q. Has Mr. Henderson ever been a supporter of yours? A. Never that I know of.

Q. He has always been a Liberal? A. I think so.

Q. Do you say the same with regard to Mr. Willis? A. I never knew anything different.

Q. Always a constant Liberal and opposed to you? A. Yes.

Q. And they both opposed you in the last election as they had opposed you in the previous election? A. No they did not.

Q. Did you charge Mr. Dryden with having received any money? A. I never did.

Q. You didn't think he would sell a public office for money? A. I don't know what he might do.

wrong and that you hadn't said these words? A. Might have been very simple.

Q. But you would not do that? A. I didn't do it.

Q. Though you knew it would have avoided a suit if you had done so? A. It might have.

Q. Would it not have been a fair thing to have done? A. I didn't do it anyway.

Q. Of course in answering Mr. Dryden you didn't consult any lawyer? A. I did.

Q. Did you ever make any complaint about the Registry office being sold to any person? A. Very likely I did, or I won't say 'sold', but I had talked the matter over about the reasons of the defeat, and attributing a great deal of it to the Registry office.

Q. Did you ever make any complaint to the Government or Legislature about it? A. No.

Q. Never applied to have any investigation? A. No, except through the letter.

Q. Why didn't you? A. I might have done so if this had not come along.

Q. But the election was as long ago as last June? A. Lots of time, but the Legislature was not in session.

Q. Did you intend to complain to the Legislature? A. I might have done so.

Q. Why did you get it all off in your speech and not save it for the Legislature? A. Well, it was the first chance I had of meeting my friends from the riding.

Q. And you had to talk about something? A. I suppose.

Q. Why didn't you put it in the newspapers? A. There had been enough in the newspapers without my putting it there.

Q. Before that? A. Yes.

Q. The public knew of it before? A. I think so. Well not exactly on the lines.

Q. Not so strong? A. Don't say that.

Q. On what lines? A. It was a subject of frequent remarks especially in the Whitty Gazette and I think occasionally in the Vindicator.

Q. Before you delivered your speech? A. Yes.

Steel That Cuts Glass.

If it be true that the experiments made by Mr. Maxim in his laboratory at Wayne, Me., have resulted as is claimed, a new steel for armor-plating can be made to resist any projectile now known, even when thrown by the highest explosives, and when the plating is thinner than that now employed.

Mr. Maxim believes the steel made by his new process identical with that of ancient India. It has been stated that the brothers Maxim are fitting up a manufactory in London for the commercial production of this metal, from which chisels and drills have already been made which the most celebrated steel manufacturers of London have pronounced "the most wonderful product of modern times. They have been found to stand wonderful tests. A small knife blade, made from the Maxim steel, possesses the wonderful power of cutting glass with as much ease as if the glass were chalk."

An Ocean Monster. A bigger boat than was ever before built has now been ordered. She will be launched within a year, and will run on the White Star Line between New York and Liverpool.

This leviathan will be called the Oceanic. She will be thirteen feet longer than the Great Eastern, the biggest boat that ever was constructed.

The Oceanic will be 150 feet longer than the St. Paul, and more than twice as long as the biggest sailing vessel afloat while seven Defenders stretched along her side would not reach from bow to stern. Compared with these celebrated vessels, the new Oceanic would rank as follows:—Oceanic 704 feet. Great Eastern:—691 feet. St. Paul 554 feet. Rowboat:—350 feet. Defender:—90 feet. Rowboat:—14 feet.

The biggest ships now afloat are all considerably smaller than this new ocean monster, which is to be built in the north of Ireland. She will be 144 feet longer than the new Pennsylvania, of the Hamburg American line, and 84 feet longer than either the Campania or the Lucania.

The Succession to the Throne.

There are more than fifty heirs to the British crown, claiming through the Queen. Among these are the Emperor of Germany, between whom and the British throne there are about twenty lives.

Foreign nationality, or the possession of a foreign crown, does not vitiate his claim but it is obvious that from motives of policy he may never be allowed to succeed.

Parliament could, and undoubtedly would, bar his claim. Similarly the Prince of Wales was heir to the Dutch crown of Sax-Coburg-Gotha, but renounced his rights in favor of his next brother.

Among other heirs to the British crown is the Princess May, as a descendant of King George III., but in her own right she stands seventy-fourth in the list.

The principle upon which the crown descends is that of following one branch of the family until that is exhausted, and then the next collateral branch is followed until that is exhausted, when the crown reverts still further back.

The descendants of Queen Victoria are so numerous that it is extremely unlikely that any other branch of the family of King George III. will inherit it.

The immediate succession is as follows: The Prince of Wales, son. Duke of York, grandson. Prince Edward, son of the Duke of York, great-grandson.

His Cheque Good For Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

He Finds in Paine's Celery Compound a New Life.

In one of our large Canadian cities there resides one of Canada's merchant princes who can at any moment write his cheque for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Some time ago this merchant prince was a very sick man. Liver troubles, headache and insomnia were fast pulling down a strong physical frame.

Doctors bestowed great care and attention on their wealthy patient, but no cure came to cheer him; in fact no perceptible benefit was felt after months of treatment.

"Ten people out of a dozen are invalids," says a recent medical authority. At least eight out of these ten, it is safe to allow, are suffering from some form of blood disease which persistent use of Dr. Sarsaparilla would be sure to cure. Then, don't be an invalid.
