Short Notes.
A man named Hall at Mason, Mich., has slept three years, except intervals of fifteen minutes when he is aroused to receive nourishment.

It is reported that in future Queen Victoria will only attend to affairs of state in close retirement, and that the Prince and Princess of Wales will be at the head of all social functions of the state.

A big agitation was raised a few years ago by many Canadian politicians against receiving titles from the queen; but in this year of jubilee all the big guns are crazy to become knights, and those who have been overlooked are mad with disappointment.

The greatest naval display ever seen was made by a combination of British warships off Portsmouth on Saturday last, there being twenty five miles of ironclads in the show.

Such an aggregation of power is simply appalling to anyone who has the remotest idea of the destructiveness of the modern armored ship. Some of these ships cost as high as three and a half million dollars and the repairs, the coal and the manning of all these ships must entail an expense and a system of management the like of which is unheard of and unknown.

The Dominion parliament was prorogued on Tuesday. Previous to the adjournment Sir Oliver Mowat and Sir Mackenzie Bowell patched up a bargain that the Government is not to go on with the deal with the Drummond County railway, and that an investigation into the bargain is to be held next session.

During the discussion Sir Mackenzie Bowell declared that he was not working in connection with the Conservative leaders in the House of Commons in this matter, that he had only spoken to Sir Charles Tupper once since the session opened, and had not spoken to Mr. Foster for over a year. This statement created a slight sensation.

The House of Commons and Senate are not agreed these days. There are some railway deals in the Province of Quebec which are very suggestive of Mr. Tarte, whose name alone smells worse than any other Liberal in the nostrils of the Conservatives. The Senate cannot be induced to ratify these deals until by investigation it can be ascertained whether or not they are jobs and there is a deadlock between the two houses.

to evade its responsibility in connection with this roadway, which besides being a necessity in clear and certain work, being built across Scugog marsh in lieu of the county line. This council has been induced to assume the road by a unanimous vote, and thus a great and necessary thoroughfare has been finally established. It is the only cross-county road over the Scugog Valley for 30 miles.

The council does a lot of talking about the house of industry, but what does it all amount to? Many of the members secured votes last January by promising not to go on with such a scheme until a plebiscite of the county ratepayers had been taken upon it. This was only devised to get elected, and now these members while declaring they are personally not in favor of it, are forced to admit that they tied their hands upon the question of the sake of votes. They had better adopt Mr. A. Johnston's advice and no home and resign, and let some person be elected who will not sell his liberty of action for the sake of the office of county councillor. So as to get into the system of getting votes has shelved the question indefinitely, for one might as well be a wooden man in council as to be composed of flesh and blood and necessary therefore not be able to use any of these attributes for the relief of distress. It is unlikely that there will be any home for the poor until dexterous candidates can no longer catch votes by declaring themselves personally in favor of such an institution in order to rope in the people who want one, and at the same time holding for a plebiscite to secure the support of those opposed to it.

For several years whilst Mr. Thos. Treleaven was reeve of Beaverton he besieged the county council incessantly in favor of having the Torrens Land system of land titles and registration introduced in this county. Mr. Treleaven was many times rebuffed, but would not down. The thing was on his heart, and his conscience would give him no rest. He knew very many people who could never be certain of their vested rights in real estate until they had Torrens titles. Knowing this Mr. Treleaven slept on the scheme, went over it in private, ate and drank and made oath upon it, and would have died if it had not been in a moment of weakness listened to him. A committee was appointed to find out how the Torrens system could be started here, and although the committee recommended the council to have nothing to do with the Torrens nonsense, the advice was not adopted. Very foolishly the council listened to the persistent Mr. Treleaven, and now the big bills are coming in for payment. The Torrens farce has gone on for over a year, and as yet neither Mr. Treleaven nor any of the people who would be happy if they got it have applied for its guided death. So far as can be seen it would have been as well or better to have given Mr. Treleaven $300 or $400 to shut up and go home, and not impose a perpetual nuisance on the taxpayers of the county.

The Trip of the Season.
The Whitby Highland Club will run the excursion of the season to Niagara Falls on Wednesday, July 14th. That date is the best time of all on the trip. The lake, and the jolly highlanders have never yet failed to draw a crowd to anything, nor to entertain the crowd when they get it. Those who attend the annual smoking concert of this club, need no further guarantee of the time they will have. All aboard for Niagara on Wednesday, July 14th.

Art School Examinations.
The reports for the Provincial examination drawing are out, and we note the following results: Whitby Collegiate Institute, 73 primary course certificates, 12 advanced course certificates, 1 certificate in mechanical drawing, 1 certificate in perspective in the province makes a better showing. Ontario Ladies College takes 2 primaries, 1 certificate in advanced course, and 1 special certificate each in water color, oil color, and china painting.

Liddle vs. Bickle.
Before Police Magistrate Harper on Tuesday night Henry Bickle, near Brooklin, was charged by Thos. Liddle with assault. It was a scrape over a gravel pit. Geo. Liddle owns the farm occupied by Bickle, and had given Geo. Bickle, road overseer, permission to go to Bickle's and haul gravel from a pit on the farm. Bickle went there with his men, and started working at the gravel. Geo. Liddle came along and asked the gate. He then proceeded to order them all off the place. Bickle, as overseer, started to parley with Liddle, telling him that he had Liddle's permission to take the gravel, that as a road overseer he had a clear right to take gravel from any farm, and that if any damage were done the township would not be liable. Bickle said that wouldn't do, he was not going to allow a lot of damage to be done and then have to go to law to collect it. He went into the pit to hustle the men out, and seeing Thos. Liddle there he proceeded to run him first. It may be here stated that there is had blood between Bickle and Thos. Liddle. Some of the men sat down until Bickle and Bickle would argue the matter out and settle it. Liddle stood between the plow handles where he had been loosening up the gravel. Bickle got so hot at last that he grabbed hold of Liddle by the sleeve and started to drag him to the pit. Liddle jerked loose, whereupon Bickle hit him on the neck, making a mark which was still visible at the trial. Seeing that there was blood in Bickle's eye, and that he would not raise the siege until the very man in the gravel pit had been laid low, Bickle drew his force and Liddle made an appeal to the law in person of the magistrate. Mr. McGillivray on behalf of Bickle argued that in making no attempt to move of Bickle's premises when ordered to do so, Liddle became a trespasser, and liable to be forcibly ejected. On the other hand it was urged that Bickle had locked the gate before proceeding to besiege the gravel pit, but it was admitted that as the party in the pit capitulated he opened a passage for them into the road. The magistrate said he would reserve his decision to enable him to look up the law and see what rights the lavandier party had in the gravel pit, and would then decide whether or not Bickle was on legal grounds in performing on their spines.

Palaces Regarding the Moon.
There are many people who look at the new moon and form an opinion as to the weather for the next month. About a year ago we published an article showing that the moon has nothing to do with the weather, and by request we here reproduce it. "There is a new moon this week, and we doubt not that perhaps fifty millions of people on this continent have been taking stock of it to see whether the weather for the next four weeks is to be dry, or whether the moon on this occasion lies well on its back, and will hold water. We really forget whether it is a moon which holds water or whether it is that which is regarded as a sign of wet weather, but it doesn't matter what we have to say. The moon is two hundred and thirty-seven thousand miles from this earth, while the atmosphere only reaches forty miles from the earth's surface. The moon is so far away that neither heat nor heat in it so far as we know, and therefore can have no effect upon any other body, except that by reflection it throws light on us from the sun during the night when the earth is in a position to see the sun's rays, but the moon does not reflect that heat far enough to affect the earth. Now we come to the point where the moon this week. Those who noticed it whether the moon followed the sun by from one to three days, or whether it ly setting in the same place. The sun is about ninety-five millions of miles away from us, and the moon last Sunday was almost directly between us and the sun. By Monday night it had got a little behind the sun in setting, by Tuesday it was nearly two hours behind, and will lose nearly another hour every day until it will finally rise in the east about the time the sun sets in the west, and will then be full. Then instead of the moon being seen almost between the sun and us, the earth will have taken a position very nearly between the sun and moon. If we were exactly between the sun and moon there would be a total eclipse of the moon, but we are not so situated at this time. Well, we were saying, the moon has this week been right over the sun and nearly between us and the sun, therefore the sun shines on the other side of the moon, leaving only a part of a circle of light, or reflection at the bottom. If the moon's position were a lot further south one can easily see that this part of a circle of light or reflection would be up and down its right side instead of on its under side, as is the case when it is directly above the sun in setting. Let it be understood that it is the course of the three planets which causes the changing appearance of new moons, and that the moon's phases have no effect whatever on the earth. Many people seem to know better, look in their almanacs to see when there will be a change in the moon, and then look for a change in the weather by declaring themselves personally in favor of such an institution in order to rope in the people who want one, and at the same time holding for a plebiscite to secure the support of those opposed to it.

Last of the June Weddings.
One of the prettiest June weddings ever celebrated in Whitby was that on Wednesday morning in All Saints' church, when Mr. William George Mitchell, of Toronto, was married to Miss Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Till of this town. Happening on the last day of the month of weddings, June, the sun burst thro' the storm clouds just as the bride stepped from the door of her father's parsonage. Her father started for the church a little after eleven o'clock, and thus the weather clerk and father time were in a conspiracy to make the conditions as auspicious as possible. The church had been beautifully decorated by the ladies of the congregation. To the spirited music of a selection from Lohengrin, the bride party came up the aisle, and the groom with his best man, Mr. Howard B. Climes, of Port Perry, assisted by Mr. Arthur Till, of Toronto, brother of the bride, were in waiting. The bridesmaids were ideally pretty, their blonde and brunette beauty artistically contrasting. They were Miss Dottie Lamont, of Toronto, and Miss Olive Russell, cousin of the bride, of New York. Mr. Wm. Lamont, of Toronto, acted as best man, and the groom's best man was Mr. J. S. Broughal, incumbent of All Saints, performed the ceremony. When the beautiful bride stepped from the door of her father's parsonage she carried a magnificent bouquet of white roses. Miss Lamont's gown was a white silk organdie over pink, and she wore a large Legerhorn hat ornamented with white plumes and roses. Miss Russell was gowned in sky blue accordeon plaid silk with large picture hat of white chiffon and plumes. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of pink and white carnations and wore white hats with white veils. The bride's gown was gowned in heliotrope swiss muslin and wore a bonnet to match. Motherly indeed and justly proud of this charming lady looking which she had so graciously bestowed on her. The house was a beaming of white. It was profusely and artistically decorated with June roses and other varieties of flowers, a gift to the bride from Mrs. Wm. Webb, of St. Catharines. The speech-making in response to toasts to the bride, bridesmaids, and the bride's parents was one of the happiest features of the past nuptial festivity. The presents to the bride were many and beautiful. They but evidenced the high esteem in which she and the young gentlemen to whom she is so auspiciously married are held by their wide circle of friends and relatives. Among these may be mentioned an exquisite china game set by the bachelors, the Messrs. Climes, of Toronto; a silver toilet set from B. Company, of the Queen's Own regiment, of which the groom is first lieutenant; a Dresden china mantel clock from Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Birkett, Ottawa; and a silver water set from Mrs. D. Lick, Mr. E. D. and Mrs. E. M. Lick, and Mrs. J. E. Hinkson. The Canonizer extends to Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell an expression of earnest good will, and congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Till upon this felicitous occasion. The bride couple left on the afternoon train for Buffalo.

Deserted His Wife.
It is reported that John H. Lavis, a young farmer residing north-east of this town, has deserted his wife and two little children and gone off to parts unknown with a girl named Gordon from Brock who has lately been a servant girl in the employment of Mrs. H. Sonley. Mrs. Lavis was formerly a Miss DeLong, Brooklin, and it reports a crime, there has been very little peace between them since their marriage. Lavis made an assignment to Anthony Plowman, who is a heavy creditor, before he went away, and left no provision for Mrs. Lavis' comfort. She had High Constable Calverly visit the house the other day and seize such articles as she could claim.
