Private School

Miss Yule, of Kent street, who has had several years experience as a public school teacher and who holds many flattering testimonials from inspectors and school boards, has decided to open a private school for children. We recommend her to the favorable consideration of parents who do not care to send their little tots of five or six years to the large public schools.

To keep windows free from moisture.

Shopkeepers often find their fine display of goods hidden from the public eye by the frost forming on the inside of the panes. A simple remedy for this is a thin coat of pure glycerine applied to the glass. This will prevent any moisture forming thereon, and last until so much dust collects on it as to make the window cloudy. Surveyors also find it with advantage on their instruments in frosty or foggy weather. In fact, it can be used to prevent moisture forming on anything, and engine drivers find it particularly useful to keep their windows clear from steam as well as cold or moist.

Consultation and examination free. See small bills. Treatise on the eye and sight free. Will be at Allins Drug Store Sept. 10, till 3 p.m. only.

Your Bicycle Tire.

Do not let the air out of a bicycle tire that is not in use to "save it." Tires are much better off when standing if well inflated. Generally speaking, a small tire requires more pressure than a large one, if it is to carry the same weight, and a tire requires more pressure in proportion to the riders weight. A tire should always contain enough air to rim from the ground. If in riding you feel the slightest jar of the rim as your wheel runs over ordinary obstacles, it is because there is not sufficient pressure. There is no danger of bursting a tire, as many riders seem to fear, when the small hand pump is used, and even with the best foot pump only the weakest tires could be burst. An extensive observation has found many tires which were too soft, while one is rarely found too hard.

The Bicycle Hump.

The hump on a bicyclers back is always an eyesore to those who do not ride. It is objected to as much as the bicycle itself. Once in a while a cyclist rides bolt upright, and his graceful riding is favorably commented upon. People ask why all no one ride that way. At the same time no person ever knew one who rode upright to make a long trip, or cover 100 miles in 10 or 12 hours. If you ask a dozen bicyclists they will give you almost a dozen different answers. The reason for the hump keeps them guessing as well as other people. One will tell you that he does not find so much resistance from the wind when he stops his head down. The next will opine that he gets a better movement on the pedals with his feet when he humps his back like a dog stretched over the side of a pot licking out the bottom. A third will say he gets a better grip to push it up hill. A fourth thinks he can go faster that way, but cannot explain why, a fifth that he does not get saddle-sores when riding doubled up like a cat in a fight, a sixth thinks he breathes more freely (when his lungs are cramped), a seventh that he can steer his wheel better, and soon. Those who do not ride are more contemptuous in their expressions of opinion. One will say it is fashionable, another that it matches the bicycle face, a third that it befits such an outlandish practice as bicycling, a fourth that it is the mark of the best of those who do beasts work, etc. The real reason occurs to a very few. Man must have comfort, and the spine which strains or jingles the spine thing which strains or jingles the spine, spoils all pleasure. The bicycle humps upon one continually as anybody can see. If one sits upright and rides fast he can feel one side of his back being driven up, and ward into the other. If he leans over, when he strikes a crossing there is a little jolt to the waist forward, and which does not affect his spine at all. Leaning forward does away with the jolt almost entirely. One would not suffer as much in going a hundred miles or ten miles as in making the same speed five or ten miles sitting straight up. It also gives a stronger pedal movement. It cramps the lung, of course, but it is doubtful if the injury to the lung is great as it is generally probable that the greater expansion of the back squares the matter up. The main reason, however, is to get rid of the joggle.

The dredge Nipissing is improving Whitby harbor. The water in the lake is very low, notwithstanding the rainy season and the present is a very favorable time for dredging.

Mr James Campbell and Dr J T Campbell Chicago, arrived here on Wednesday on a business trip. The Campbells cannot stay long away from Canada at a time, and their many friends here are always ready to extend to them a hearty welcome.

Mr Frank Dehart writes from Indian Head, stating that he will remain in the west until November 13, 1897. He will be a wealthy man in a few years. Hundreds of young men here had better follow his example. There is room for all.

Mr D A Worden has returned to Tacoma, Washington, after spending a fortnight visiting friends in Manchester and Whitby. He is a brother of Mrs Geo H Sonley. Mr Worden struck Tacoma at the time of the boom, and secured some valuable property at a low figure when the boom collapsed.

Mr Richard Okes horse ran away from Nobles lumber yard last night and proceeded up Dundas st. and down Brock. In front of Mr Collins' stable it came in contact with Mr Ed Cornell's rig, in which was seated Miss Cornell, who in trying to jump out, fell, and the flying rig passed over her, but miraculously she was not hurt. She is to be congratulated on her narrow escape.

Another date has been fixed for the end of the world—November 13, 1897. This time Professor Fay, of Vienna is the prophet of evil. On that day there is to be a collision between the earth and a comet, and all inhabitants of this sphere are to be poisoned by gas or burned alive. The professor has done some work in meteorology, but despite this fact the good Viennese have continued to make plans for the twentieth century, in disregard of the prophecy.

The Junction hotel was offered for sale by auction on Saturday afternoon, and sold to Mr W B Fringie at $8,000. This is a claim against the estate for a larger sum for money advanced temporarily last year to build the hotel. A license was granted to this hotel, but has never been taken out, although we understand liquor is being sold all the while in an open house. The license out. The inspector has signified his intention of closing up the place if the license is not taken out at once.

Mr W H Gates, receiving teller of the Toronto branch of the Bank of Montreal, receiving money from a customer, discovered a legal and imitation half-sovereigns. Mr H C Webster, the paying teller of the bank, says they are imitations of English half-sovereigns, evidently some of the semi-centennial sixpences issued by the home government in 1887 which were good only for a day (namely June 21st, 1887). The coins Mr Gates detected are made exactly like half-sovereigns, but are gold plated. People should be on the lookout for them as in the Brooklin barracks on Sunday and Monday night a number of them were found, but no good now as the home government called them all in long ago.

Cricket Match.

The cricket match here on Thursday afternoon last was not between the married and single ex-lovers of the game, but between teams selected and captained respectively by Messrs Fra Blythe and Joe A Hay. The crease had been put in capital shape through the bossing of Mr A W Till, who was instrumental in stirring the boys up for the game, and the play was surprisingly good, especially the fielding. The boys went into the game with much energy, and when one made a glaring fumble or other error he blushed and bore the chaffing meekly. The attendance was very good for an unannounced game, and veterans, Judge Dartlett and Rev B Gold being at the roll call. The following is the score:

To Be Laid Over.

Those who have interviewed members of town council as to the proposed bylaw prohibiting bicyclers from using the walks, report that there is no general feeling among the town fathers in favor of interfering with the bicycle at present. Those who ride for a fad have nearly all put away their wheels for this season, while those who use wheels in connection with business will need to use the walks far more, during the season growth where most kicking is heard and in all probability those interested in wheels will make a kinder path of their own to the bay next spring. Thus the hardest question bearing upon the bicycle will be solved. For a month we have not heard a single person speak against bicycles on the walks and there is very little probability of any trouble with the law will continue to use their wheels after October 1st.

Rheumatism & Dyspepsia Cured

571 ST. PATRICK ST.,
OTTAWA, JULY 31, 1896.

To the Phenoline Medicine Co., Ltd.,
Ottawa, Ont.

Gentleman,—On the advice of a friend I tried one bottle of your famous rheumatic remedy, Phenoline, and to my surprise it cured me of rheumatism, from which I have suffered for many years.

It also cured me of dyspepsia, from which I was suffering at the time, so that I feel now like a new man.

I have tried several remedies for rheumatism, some of which did me a certain amount of good, but nothing that I have taken has done so much for me as your Phenoline, and I have much pleasure in recommending it to other sufferers.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JAS. CARROLL,
Foreman of Works, Rideau Canal.
