It was fitting, therefore, that the world-wide popularity of these pills should be recognized by the World's Fair medal of 1893 - a fact which emphasizes the record:

From the Galt Reporter.

Mr. Robt. McLeod is a gentleman well known in the town of Galt and through. out the district. In conversation with a member of the Reporter staff recently, he consented to make public the facts concerning the illness and restoration to health of his little boy. He said :-

"Yes, I believe that had it not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my little boy would not have been living to-day. Willie, who is ten years of age, was taken with an illness that developed into paralysis of the left side. He had the best medical aid within my reach, but nothing seemed to benefit him. He got so bad that a pin could be run into his left hand to the bone without his feeling it in the least. If he attempted to walk he cou only get over the ground by dragging his left foot behind him; he had no power in it whatever. One night I was feeling pretty blue about him. I telt that he was going to be an invalid all his ife, and I viewed things in their worst light. On this particular night I put on my with the intention of going out to take a quiet walk, but just as I got to the door I saw lying on a step a phamphlet. I pick ed it up listlessly, and saw it was an advertising book of the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. 1 only read a few words when the conviction seized me that here was something that might possibly benefit my boy. I at once went down to Mr. Ferrah's drug store and purchased a box of the pills. By the time he had taken two boxes the color had come back into his hand and arm, and by the time he had taken half a dozed boxes he was cured, and now he is better than he even was before in his life, and as hearty and strong as any boy in the town. Yes, sir, I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful medicine."

Save All The Manure.

One hundred loads of the very best manure could be made on many farms (where it is now allowed to go to waste), from fifteen cattle, a horse or two, two to four hogs, a hundred hens, the kitchen sink and the water closet. Fill every available space in the barn with leaf mould from the woods, much from the swamp, dust from the road taken at the driest time of the year. If there is no room in the barn make a place for it.

Make a trench four inches deep behind the cows and horses. Fill with this dry earth and as soon as it becomes saturated remove and fill again. The valuable liquid manure is thus preserved and is in good condition for spplying to the land. Deposit fifteen loads within 20 feet of the kitchen sink and run a spout to it. Put every bit of soap suds, dish water, etc., onto this. When one spot becomes well move to another until all is fertilized alike, then remove and put in some more. Give the pigs all they need in pens and yards. Cover the platforms under the chicken roosts. #### Meat and Drink in Old England.

According to Chaucer, the more well to do of the working classes evidently spent a vast deal of time at the public house, eating and drinking, telling idle tales, playing at skittles when the weather was fine, singing ryhmes of "Robin Hood," or listening to fiddlers and pipers, or to gleemen and janglers of jests-that is to say, ballad singers and professional story tellers.
