Feeling that this was taking too great a liberty with tis person the horse kicked—not figuratively speaking, but really tried to shake hands with the cigar man. Then the animal set out to give Mr Man more speed than the specification called for. First it ran a couple of hundred yards kicking all the while. Then it thought of a more sensational feat, and took a run across the deep ditch and took the sidewalk west from Mr Whites residence at the town limit. In crossing the ditch the traveler got lost out of the rig, and appeared to be badly hurt. The horse ran deposite on the mountain on up the sidewalk with the wheels of the conveyance on either side, until it came to HE Morphy's gate, which it tried to jump.
