Where is Inspector Ferguson? Excuse me, Inspector Ferguson, for the taking the liberty I do in the heading of this article. The Port Perry Observer-a good authority on the whiskey question-says "that law is strictly enforced by our vigilant and efficient License Inspector." I am always pleased to hear that you do your duty. Let us see if such is the case. Two weeks ago I stated that men and fathers of families had been seen drunk on our main streets on Sunday. Two days after that article aper, I cite another case : On Saturday, Oct 30, a man of this town was paid for doing a job of work; shortly afterwards, he hied him self off to the hotels aud on Sunday morning at the hour of two oclock went reeling drunk to his home. He slept off his drunken stupor and on Sunday forenoon told his family he was going for a walk. He did walk very nearly straight to a hotel and was again drunk. Search was made for him, but the drinker could not be found. The man wandered home alone some time Sunday night drunk. Only a short time ago this same man said in my hearing that anyone was a fool who drank whiskey. Inspector Ferguson, the Observer says you are vigilant and efficient. Am I wrong when I say you are very slack or is the Observer right? I am well aware it is understood that hotelkeepers shall not be prosecuted, unless the violations are very glaring, until after the
