Right Loyal Toast.

The following is a verbatim report of a speech, in giving the toast of "The Queen," at a recent agricultural show dinner in Scotland. The chairman began, "Noo, gentlemen, will ye a' fill your glasses, for I'm about to bring forward 'The Queen.' (Applause.) Oor Queen, gentleman, is really a wonderful woman, if I may say it; she's a'ne o' the guld auld sort, nae whigmalers or faldalderies about her, but a douce decent body. She's respectable beyond a doot. She has brocht up a grand family o' weel-fair'd lads and lassies—her aulddest son being a credit to you mither—and they're a' weel married. Ae daughter is nae less than married to the Duke o' Argyll's son and heir. (Cheers.) Gentleman, ye'll maybe no believe it, but I once saw the Queen. (Sensation.) I did. It was when I took my auld brown ood tae Perth I remember her weel—such colour, such hair!" Interruption, and cries of "Is it the ood or the Queen ye are proposing?" "The Queen, gentlemen. I beg your pardon, but I was talking about the ood. However, as to the Queen, somebody pointed her out tae me at Perth station, and there she was, smart and tidy-like; and says I tae mysel', 'Gin my auld woman at hame slips awa' ye needna remain a widow anither hour langer.' (Cheers.) Noo, gentlemen, the whiskey's the guid, the night is lang, the weather is weel, and the roads are safe, and will harm naebody that comes tae grief. So aff will yer drink tae the bottom! 'The Queen!' (Cheers.)"

A Terrible Explosive.

Experiments have recently been made at Chalons, France, with the new melinite shell which prove it to be the most terrific instrument of modern warfare. The guns are built on the Bange system of breech-loading. They are mounted so as to be fired from any angle from 80 degrees below to 80 degrees above the horizon. The projectiles are of two kinds: An ordinary shell, weighing about 220 pounds, and carrying a percussion fuse, and the melinite shell. The latter is about three feet in height, is steel plated, contains 60 pounds of melinite and when loaded weighs about 230 pounds. The charge is about fifteen pounds of powder. The effects produced by this melinite shell are wonderful. In an escapement wall a single shell opened a breach 9 by 18 feet. A shell exploding upon a casement left a hole 9 feet deep and 18 feet in diameter, and stone vaults were crushed completely.

SORE FROM ANKLE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of diseased and thin tissue. One third in size. Condition hopeless. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to the feet. The skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was a mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished a little in size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try CUTICURA REMEDIES, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever. It was sound in every respect and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

Terrible Suffering from Skin Disease.

I have been a terrible sufferer for years from disease of the skin and blood, and have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disgusting humors. Have had the best of physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, but not a cure. I tried the CUTICURA REMEDIES, which have cured me and left my skin as clear and my blood as pure as a child's.

HEALTH.

The Value of Health.

We never learn the value of health until we have lost it. Only when it is no longer ours do we begin to prize it, and study how to take care of it. The result is, that instead of living from eighty to one hundred years, as we ought to do, and dying of ripe old age at last, we are made to languish and to suffer almost every day while we live, and are carried off by preventable diseases at every age from infancy and maturity. If we could begin now, and the children in our homes be taught the laws of their being, and trained to observe them, the gain in health and longevity to this generation would be immense, while to the succeeding ones it would be beyond all computation. One difficulty is, there has not yet come into the minds of a large proportion of people any definite conception that there are such things as laws of health, and that every violation of these laws is sure to bring its penalty. The last thing that individuals or communities think of doing is to take the blame for their ill-health upon their own shoulders, where it rightly belongs. This, then, is the first lesson to be taught and learned—that all disease is the result of broken law; and that much of it might easily be avoided by the observance of the laws of health on the part of the individual. The next thing to be taught is the laws themselves—and with the laws, and of greater importance, the habit of obeying them. We know a great deal more than we put in practice.

Lime Water in Diphtheria.

Lime-water, says a medical contemporary, is an admirable remedy in cases of diphtheria. Its local effect is most useful in cleansing and purifying the fauces, and its mode of application is the easiest imaginable. It requires no spray-apparatus, no douching, and no effort at gargling. It is sufficient to have the patient slowly swallow a teaspoonful or more every hour in order to get good results from its use. This fact is of the greatest importance in treating children, who are too often cruelly tortured in the attempt to make local applications to the throat. Lime-water can be given easily, and is taken readily by children. An early clearing out of the bowels with calomel, sometimes in massive doses, followed up after a short interval by the administration of lime-water and the use of a suitable tonic and regimen—constitutes a method which comes the nearest to being of the universal applicability.

Milk For Infants.

Dr. Frederick M. Warner writes in "Health":—"A problem which occurs to every practitioner to solve, with greater or less frequency, is the successful rearing of children which have been, from some causes or other, deprived of the maternal nutriment; to this end various foods have been devised—some good, others bad, and all expensive. After experimenting with, and trial of, most of these, I have come back to cow's milk, properly prepared, as the best substitute for our command. I have caused the milk consumed by all my artificially-reared children to be prepared in the following manner:—Into an ordinary cooking steamer, which can be bought at any hardware store, a couple of inches of water is put and brought to the boiling point; the milk which is the infants allowance for the next twenty-four hours is placed in as many nursing bottles as is used during that length of time. These bottles, having been previously placed in an oven for a quarter of an hour, are now stoppered with cotton wool, and put on the perforated plate in the steamer, not touching each other, the cover shut tightly down, and the whole allowed to steam for half an hour. As will be readily seen, by this method all germs are destroyed, and if the milk is left stoppered and in a cool place, it will keep a long time. In the course of some experiments which I have been making, and I find that, to-day, milk which was steamed exactly five weeks ago is perfectly sweet and good. When feeding time comes, the wooden cork is removed and lime-water and sugar of milk are added. A nipple taken out of boiling water is put on, the bottle warmed, and the child's food is ready for administration. In closing, I wish merely to emphasize the fact that a bottle must be used but once; immediately after the child has taken all it will, the remainder of its contents must be thrown away, and the bottle washed, and placed in the sun and air.

Good Sleep.

Those who are subject to indigestion in any form seldom sleep well. Therefore, neither indulge in hearty suppers, nor go to bed hungry. While a heavy meal ought not to be taken within at least three hours of bedtime, a warm snack before retiring will often dispose one to sleep contentedly. Immediately open air exercise during the day is the sure precursor of a bad night's rest. In the holiday season towns-folk find that exposure to country or sea air makes them both hungry and sleepy. A brisk walk on a breezy night has a soporific effect, but it is better that the body be wearied, rather than fatigued, on retiring to rest. Sleeplessness is due in many cases to lying too long in the morning, or indulging in sleeping during the day. A short nap before dinner is more refreshing than one after; just as exercise is better before than after meals. A persisting habit of keeping awake in bed may be cured by curtailing the hours of repose. If the skin be not thoroughly cleansed and refreshed, sleep cannot be expected. An occasional warm bath before bedtime has a salutary effect, but cold baths are only safe for the robust. An evening dip in the "briny" during the months usually ensures an tranquil repose. When sleeplessness cannot be traced to any of the common causes here stated, it may then be considered as a symptom arising from some unsuspected disorder lurking in the system.

Long Life and Regular Habits.

Longevity without regular habits is rare, says the Popular Science Monthly. Out of 1000 men who lived to an advanced age, 461 have been farmers, 92 have been carpenters, 70 merchants, 61 mariners, 49 laborers, 42 tanners, 41 manufacturers, 23 clergy-men, 23 masons, 16 blacksmiths, 16 bankers, 12 each iron workers, mill hands, physicians and lawyers, and the balance are divided among nearly all the other trades and professions. The last included only one each of the following: Hermit, hunter, chemist, professor, soldier, broker, auctioneer, jockey, contractor. Nearly all, however, began life upon the farm.

Saccharin and Dyspepsia.

The "Board of Trade Journal" contains a report by a commission of Paris doctors appointed by the Minister of Commerce to examine into the properties and effects as a food of saccharin, an artificial sweet-stuff principally made in Germany. The commission says that materials which are an-tiseptic or incapable of fermentation should not be introduced into food. It should be borne in mind, report goes on, that a substance is only a food on condition of its being able to undergo on the economy all the series of changes which render it assimilable. Not only is saccharin not a food, but by its antiseptic properties it renders entirely unalterable the substances with which it may be mixed. To replace sugar by saccharin therefore is to suppress an article of food in order to replace it by an inert body; it is to check or retard the physiological actions which produce the change into sugar of the amylaceous materials; it is, in short, to expose the organism to a double death. The delay affected in the change of the fibrin of the albumen is not clearly shown. Hence the commission concludes that [the charin would not be introduced into food if that it is not a food, and cannot replace sugar—that its use, or that of its preparations, seriously troubles the digestive functions, and increases the affection known under the name of dyspepsia—and that it should be prohibited as an article of food. It is said that the Portuguese Government has prohibited the introduction of saccharin into that country.

Treatment of Obesity.

Dr. Towers Smith contributes to a medical journal the following interesting record of his treatment of obesity. Finding that his weight had increased enormously, he determined to try the following treatment for corpulence:—On March 1st, 1885, I weighed 15 stones 10 pounds; on the second I commenced the treatment, which was as follows:—Breakfast: one pound of rumpsteak, without fat. Lunch: another pound of rumpsteak. At dinner: one pound of grill ood, and one pound of rumpsteak. I drank at intervals during the twenty-four hours a gallon of hot water. The last thing at night I took two tablespoonfuls of Serravallo's whiskey in cold water, and eight and morning five grains of bicarbonate of potash. On the 15th I was weighed again, and I found myself reduced to 14 stones 6 pounds. I then reduced the amount of water, and began to take tea or coffee, reducing the quantity of meat, and taking toast with it. On April 8th my weight in Jermyn Street was reduced to 13 stones 4 pounds. I gradually from that date returned to my usual habits of life as regards diet; and on the 30th I weighed again, and my weight was 12 stones 11 pounds, and since that date up all now has not materially varied: I have eaten and drunk as I pleased. Finding this course of treatment was personally successful I have since treated forty patients with equal success.

Effect of Coffee on the Eyes.

Mr. J. M. Haladay writes as follows in a recent number of the North American Review:—"I am satisfied that defective vision and blindness will pretty soon be a prominent characteristic among American people. I make this assertion without having seen any statistics whatever on the subject of blindness. I found out long ago that a cup of coffee leaves a night-shade on the brain which continues longer than an eclipse of the sun. For some time past I have been consulting with different persons in Council Bluffs, who are suffering with failing sight, and in each instance I ascertained that the unfortunate person was and is a regular coffee-drinker. I had long noticed that the eyes of old coffee-drinkers had a dry and shrivelled appearance.

Draughts in Trains.

Draughts encountered in railway travelling are the active causes of many intolerable attacks of neuralgia. Occasionally they have the permanent consequence. To avoid this peril, most persons try to secure places with their heads to the engine. This answers well enough as regards the seat next the window, but owing to the angle at which the air enters the rapidly-advancing carriage when a window is open, the occupant of the seat, with his back to the engine, receives a reflected current of air, not so strong, but fully as likely to produce what is popularly called a "chill" as that to which the brave traveller who "likes air," and persists in riding forwards, with the window down, exposes himself. The prudent man, who has esconced himself in the second seat, and sits backwards, probably finds a singular in the ear nearest the window, and possibly suffers a mysterious attack of "toothache," or "tic douloureux" some days afterwards. Anyone interested in the subject may work out the conditions of this phenomenon with the aid of a pencil, and the familiar law that angles of reflection are equal to angles of incidence. This simple circumstance seems to have been unaccountably overlooked.—Lancet

What a Time

People formerly had, trying to swallow the old-fashioned pill with its film of magnesia vainly disguising its bitterness; and what a contrast to Ayer's Pills, that have been well called "medicated sugar-plums"—the only fear being that patients may be tempted into taking too many at a dose. But the directions are plain and should be strictly followed.

J. T. Teller, M. D., of Chittanooga, N. Y., expresses exactly what hundreds have written at greater length. He says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills are highly appreciated. They are perfect in form and coating, and their effects are all that the most careful physician could desire. They have supplanted all the Pills formerly popular here, and I think it must be long before any other can be made that will at all compare with them. Those who buy your pills get full value for their money."

"Safe, pleasant, and certain in their action," is the concise testimony of Dr. George E. Walker, of Martinsville, Virginia.

"Ayer's Pills outsell all similar preparations. The public having once used them, will have no others."—Berry, Venable & Collier, Atlanta, Ga.

ANOTHER WONDER.

It never was intended, so far as I can learn, that either men or women were intended to be bald.

I think you will believe me, indeed I'm sure you will, if at the "Paris Hair Works" you have called.

There is one thing Nature thinks of—let us thank her for all we can—She takes particular trouble with our race; She knows a scanty growth of hair, the gray and whitening locks, Will detract from the beauty of the face.

But Nature has her laws so strict that you must never err, For you'd surely pay the penalty at last. Sustain it, that bounteous head of hair. Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic's unsurpassed.

Just try it you afflicted, you never will regret. The Magic was never yet known to fail; And the good that it will do you will make you soon forget.

The expenditure a bottle will entail.

This now famous preparation for invigorating and stimulating the growth of the hair is universally accepted as the most valuable specific on the market. All diseases of the scalp are either relieved or permanently cured. A rich and rapid growth of hair will follow after judicious and regular treatment. It remains with the user alone to secure the desired results. Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" is sold by all druggists at $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. If not obtainable in your locality send direct to the sole manufacturer, enclosing price. A. DORNWEND, Paris Hair Works, 103 and 105 Yonge St., Toronto. For sale by J. J.
