Dundas Street, LONDON, ONT.

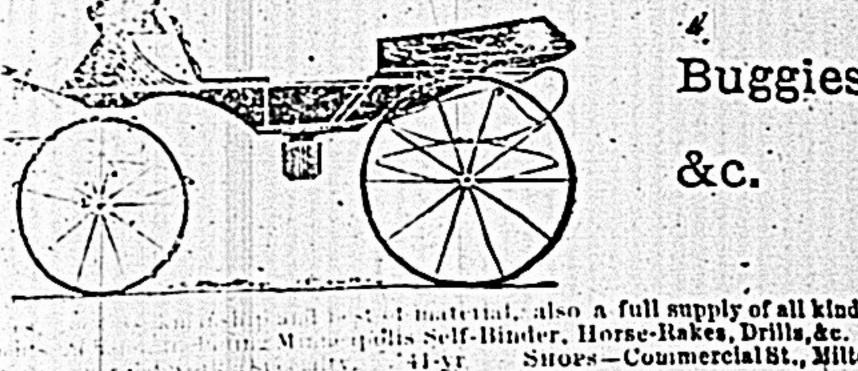

the Baker to the Front.

on, Agent for the County of Halton.

wn to Roper's and get some cakes.

shortbread and some bakes. ing of the kind he makes description for the Holidays.

your favors early. Orders from the country, to receive. heald be in not later than December 15th.

le Chains,

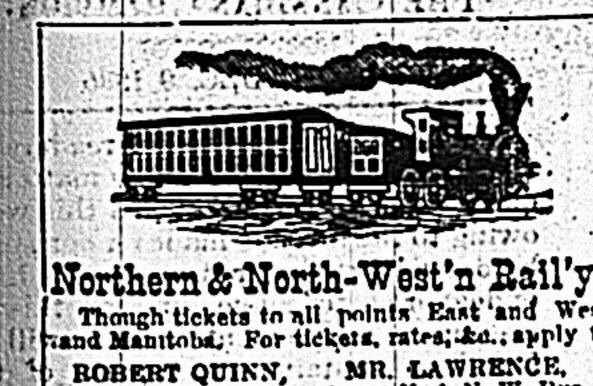

Buck Saws.

Ing Machine Needles for all Machines.

Travellers' Guide.

MILTON, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1886,

VOLUME 26.

$2 will be charged.

Thursday Morning

Any Special Notice, the object of which is DEWAR, Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Town Hall: Milton. Also agent for Sun ife, and City of London Fire Insurance Companies.

JOHN DEWAR, Barrister, County Crown Attor-ney, Notary Public, etc., Town Hall, Mainstreet

D. McGIBBON, Barrister and Attorney-at-Law. Solicitor in Chancery, etc. Office - Beath's)

M. E. MITCHELL,

Solicitor, Conveyancer, &c.

OFFICE-First door west of the CHAMPION

Office, Main St., Milton. Money to loan

CHISHOLM & ELLIOTT.

Barristers, &c.

FICTOR CHISHOLM. J.W.ELLICTT. B.A.

Barrister and Solicitor of the Supreme Court

Hotel, open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Money to loan at lowest rates of interest.

BAIN, LAIDLAW & Co.

.ngton Street, East. Entrance, Exchange

Ut. Royal College of Dental Surgeons, Ontario,

$500,000

E. R. REYNOLDS,

LICENSED AUCTIONEERS

and Wellington.

CHARGES MODERATE.

Farms for Sale.

will be in Milton on the last Tuesday of Iley, Toronto.

Office-Water St., opposite Wray'

Hamilton, Milton, Ont.

Office.-First door east of Bank

Terms for job work strictly cash.

The Canadian Champion.

P. O. Address of Clerks. MILTON, CO. OF HALTON, ONT. OFFICE:-On Main Street, opposite the Thomp-

TERMS:-31 a year in advance or within one month from the date of subscribing if not so paid County Court Sittings, without Jury, Tuesday, 4th April, and 3rd October, at 10 a. m.

By order, JOHN DEWAR, Clerk of the Peace.

W. H. MACNAB, Hardware Merchant, Has now taken the Agency for B. LAURENCE'S SPECTACLES AND EYE-GLASSES

For sale only at MACNAB'S Hardware Store, Milton.

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND MILTON PANLING MILLS.

Hunter & Ezard, Proprietors We are prepared to till all orders for all kinds of HOUSE FURNISHINGS

SASH, DOORS, BLINDS, MOU DINGS BASE, &c. BALUTERS and NEWELLS,

Also all kinks of

Lumber Matched and ressed RENERAL BUILDERS AND CONTRACTORS

We are prepared to contract for the erection of all kinds of buildings, either in part or whole. Factory-Mill Street, Milton.

For 1886-87. nagazine, having a regular circulation about two hundred thousand copies, often 18- | serial which has been in active preparation for sixteen years. It is a history of our own

This great work. begun with the sanction

THE WAR SERIES

NOVELS AND STORIES.

Sittings of the Division Courts of the Co. of Halton. For the Year 1887

MANUFACTURER. (Next door to the Thompson House,

Has on hand a good stock of Valises, Whips, Combs, and all Kinds of Horse Clothing o. the very Best English Canadian and American Manufacture. Harness, Saddles, &c., made to order promptly and at reason

EACH PLUG OF THE

IS MARKED

CAN, 361 Broadway, New York.

HEALTH IS WEALT.

For Young & Middle- ged Men ONLY $1 BY MIAL., PO PAID.

"My mother-my mother !" she cried Miss Rooden.

She flung herself upon her knees at her gifted woman to that of a young and Rane?" she asked, after a few minutes'

"Oh, mamma," she cried, "I saw to Miss Ranc. our hand, mamma! I saw him! No. distance they beheld Lady Rooden lean. signs of preference for Captain Wyn-

The guests were the crems de something unusual in her companion's Rane, perhaps even more beautiful, and h la creme of London society, and the manner. Lady Rooden and Angela were admit- time," was the reply; but Gladys Rane

A STANDARD MEDICAL WORK She was essentially one of those who It was but a suspicion; yet it was of her love there was an undercurrent wasted her love in meaningless flirta- Rane's face she felt sure that, whatever he will marry her "-marry ons. Hence her partners gave her no the captain's sentiments might be, the Rane, her young and fascinating rivalit concern so long as they danced well, whole love of the girl's heart was given "I shall ask him to morrow," she de-She hardly remembered their names, so to him. little interest did she otherwise take in not sufficiently interested in them to welcome one more than another. She was perfectly indifferent to the Angela were seated in her ladyship's room that night. If Captain Wynyard ladyship, "that words fail me." fact that the young Duke of Horton cosy. dressing-room, discussing the married Miss Rane, he would of necesneeded but a smile to encourage him; events of the day. They had donned sity cease to visit them so frequent Premature Decline in Man. Errors of Youth, and and that he was ready to lay his title their dressing gowns, and their hair was and she would never again feel and fortune at her feet. She knew and flowing loosely over their shoulders, or jealous because he was always at "This beautiful night has made you and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute cared less that Lord Parbury, the great Angela's, in which there was a pretty her mother's side. And the girl's match of the season, was bent upon natural ripple, was brushed out to its great comfort and consolation in the brought papa to your mind. I always for 25 years is such as probably never before fell to winning her. They were all shadows to full length, and her mother was passing thought. the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in her—these handsome gallant young her hand admiringly over the glossy. When Lady Rooden rose the next nights." noblemen who gathered round. At waves. In this country for $2.25, present she was far more interested in . You have beautiful hair, Angel, say to Captain Wynyard. She was or the money will be refunded in every instance. her mother's admirers than her own. she said caressingly. "I admire its na- termined to know the truth, a the author by the National Medical Association, to were strolling through the grounds, imitate it." Angela's eyes were riveted on the face -darkly beautiful, yet with a shadow just like mine," Angels remarked. were the case. The Science of Life is worth more to the young on it—of a young girl coming towards and middle-aged men of this generation than all the them. "Who is that?" she asked, in a quick low voice, of Lady Avon. "That is Gladys Rane," was the re- around me, but I did take notes this logies for his early call, but he could

Was it fancy? She could not tell, sembles mine is named Gladys Rane. to Lady Rooden. but it seemed to Angela that a curious She is a perfect bruvette, surpassingly She was looking her best, in an ex-The science of Life is a superb and masterly expression passed over Lady Avon's beautiful, and I found out something quisite morning-dress of cream-coloured face. It must have been fancy, for, about her." There is no member of society to whom The when she looked again, the strange exlelence of Life will not be useful, whether youth, pression was gone.

"Did you, Angel?" asked Lady Roo- coloured roses at her throat, and anlelence of Life will not be useful, whether youth, pression was gone.

"Did you, Angel?" asked Lady Roo- coloured roses at her throat, and anlelence of Life will not be useful, whether youth, pression was gone.

"Did you, Angel?" asked Lady Roo- coloured roses at her throat, and anlelence of Life will not be useful, whether youth, pression was gone. In a few well-chosen words Lady was it?"

hate and despair. Miss Rooden asked tender ring; and there was a something might be proud to woo and win. looked Gladys Rane was regarding her social note-taking. A month ago should not have found that out." ... Angela admired the dark beauty of There was no smile on Lady Rooden's her face, the lustrous depths of the face now; it had grown pale, and a sha-ther's hands were sacred in her eyes; shadow that lay over the lovely passio- ly. "Who is this Gladys Rane?" her father had kissed and caressed nate face. If any one had told her that "She is the niece and reputed and now this man, whom she disliked was drawn just then to her beloved she is a fashionable beauty besides and mistrusted by instinct, had dared to mother and this beautiful woman, she "You say that Captain Wynyard would not have believed it; but such loves her," continued Lady Reoden, Her face burned with indignation, and was the case. That Captain Wynyard whom the carelessly-spoken words ha her eyes flashed with anger. That he was deeply in love with Gladys Rane, been a terrible shock. should dare to treat her own mother so, yet unable to marry her because sho "I am sure that he does. I nove her dead father's wife, to her mind all would have no fortune as his wife, was thought him handsome until I saw his the more sacred because he was dead! common talk. It was equally well face soften when he looked at Miss That any man should dare to approach known in society that he was going to Rane." this beautiful mother of hers, who was marry Lady Rooden for her large for. A swift flood of jealousy seemed to tune, that Gladys Rane was still deeply course through Lady Rooden's heart. enshrined in her heart with her father, attached to the handsome captain, and She gasped for breath, her lips tremnever to be separated from him—with that she resented the transfer of his af bled, and her face quivered with paswhispered words and kisses seemed fections. All this was commonly dis- sionate pain. Could it be possib.

cussed and generally known, except to Angela was right, and that, after all, to herself. "How dare he?". The dark eyes of Gladys Rano were She had believed most earnestly that it.
But she spoke no word of what filled fixed on her face, but Angela met her was herself whom he loved, and no her heart until they reached home; gaze quite unconsciously. She had other. He had not as yet told her so in me just a little."

What was it, Lady Rooden?"

They led not be into her mother's room. heard no rumours respecting Gladys so many words; but he had acted like Her ladyship had taken off her superb Rane. She had no idea that she was a lover. She expected overy time she asked calmly. He was prepared to hear fect right to marry again if she chose to dress of amber velvet, she had laid her mother's rival, or probably she met him that he would ask her to be sho read was much relieved when do so. Why, after all, need she fear aside her jewels, and she sat, the would not have sought her society. As his wife. She had never doubted his she answeredvery picture of comfort and luxury, it was, she was attracted by the fair face love for herself, and Angela's words. hair falling like and pleasant manner of the girl. It was now fell upon her with painful suddenover her white characteristic of Angela that she pro- ness. Angela hastened to her ferred the society of a beautiful and "What kind of woman is Gladys mother's feet, and raised her lovely faco handsome man. She was therefore only silence. too pleased to remain talking for a timo "Beautiful and proud; but I am inhim; and it has almost broken my. "It must be fancy," she said over and hangs her. What it is I do not know. over again to herself; for it seemed to We talked together for some little time, "Saw what, Angel?" asked Lady her that the expression of the dark eyes and I thought she seemed restless-look-Rooden, looking up in wonder, and with changed continually. Presently they moved on and came to who did not come." an opening in the trees, and at a little "And you thought that she showed ing back in a garden-scat, and Captain yard?" A faint low cry broke from the lips of answered Angela, "but it certainly Now, that he can kiss them no more, do Gladys Rane; but it was instantly sup- seemed so to me;" and she kissed h her fancy had led her astray, for the so suddenly. "You are tired, mamn dark face for a moment grow pale. "That is Lady Rooden, your morher, sham.

Angela; and her voice was musical with I shall have my darling mother to my "He tries to be on friendly terms Good night, mamma. I will send New-Then Lady Rooden seemed to recover with us," she said cautiously; where sham to you." But Lady Rooden sat long after her ; "You do not like him! I can tell by daughter had left her, the words she "My dear Angel," said she, you can. the expression of your face and the tone had spoken rankling in her heart. "I thoughts from reverting to the past, she a cable from New South Wales to British could not curb the memories that swept of columbia, at a cost of $10.000 000. An hope he will marry her," was the wish could not curb the memories that swept of columbia, at a cost of $10.000 000. An "He is not the kind of man I like," she had expressed.

"I could not make such an absurd came over the face of Gladys Rane. When Doris Newsham, the maid, enfastly as he stood by the side of Lady to be his wife that not one doubt had aswas this who had looked on his hand. buted his not pressing her to the fact |ed to fade away like a dream; the ensome face and noble bearing, and did that he did not wish to hurry her into trancing vivid present was the only Association at Hawick, Scotland, twentywhich sloped down to the river Thames, well?" inquired Angela, with a strange had been trifling with her? Yet why well!" she said to herself. one of the most successful of the instructive consciousness that there was should he? She was fair as Gladys

"Yes; I have known him a long fear the girl? This flerce hot jealousy which she looked more beautiful than ever in tached for many months, and that due taught her how deeply she-loved the tedly the belles of the fete. Her lady- did not mention that they had been at could not control and could not bear her dress; so did the pretty she would be able to muse alone; it awakened to the knowledge of her great well-white, with a profusion of rich down to rest and enjoy the quiet her face with the fact that she loved this ment her heart represented her h carnations—a most effective costume. Shady retreat offered. Not many mi- man with a deeper, greater love than wish. velvet and white lilac gleamed, there conscious that she was not alone—that who had been so indulgent to her, who Captain Wynyard had been very urgent was to be seen also a small gathering of some one was sobbing in deep distress, bad worshipped her with so true a wor. was to be seen also a small gathering of some one was sobbing in deep distress, had worshipped her with so true a worabout the marriage, and on her part she sardent worshippers; but Angela's hap- and some one clse administering consopiness was nuclouded until she saw lation.

Captain Wynyard had been very urgent about the marriage, and on her part she ship. She had never felt jealous of her husband when he was alive. She had cided, wif it be true about Gladys the bright tender smile deepened Rane;" and she owned to herself that, her face while she sat silent for a few if it were true, life would hold nothing minutes.

Angela felt happier and lighter-heart- mother, and sat down at her feet. Late that evening Lady Rooden and ed than usual when she retired to her

As Lady Avon and her young guest tural ripple very much; no art could loved Miss Rane, she would her thoughts never went beyond "I saw a girl this afternoon with hair All happiness in life would end if the It was noon when the ex-captai. called; it was an early visit, but

"Mamma," she said, " you often say wanted to persuade Lady Rooden to that I do not see much of what passes to a flower-show. He made many a afternoon. The lady whose hair re- help seeing that it was welcome eno silk and white lace, a knot of cream-other in the gilt belt that was her sole; turned Angela. "You are jesting; for Address the Peabody Medical Institute, or Dr. Avon introduced the two who were to "She loves Captain Wynyard, and he ornament. Beautiful, stately, in the you know I could never love any or W. H. Parker, No. 4 Bulfinch Street, Boston, Mass... cross each other's lives so strangely, seems to be in love with her," replied very prime of her loveliness, love shinwho may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill. olted on all diseases requiring skill. When the dark eyes of Gladys Rane Angela proteptly. "And I found it out ing in her blue eyes and softening her papa, in life or in death." that have baffled the skill of all other physicians a rested on Angela, something flashed in in this way, mamma. When they spoke whole face and manner, her ladyship "I am quite serious, Angel," Ladi without an their depths, something that was like to each other, their voices had quite a looked like a woman whom any man Rooden assured her daughter; "tl., herself if this was fancy also. It must in both faces that betrayed their love. I So Vance Wynyard thought when his now. Listen to me patiently, dear; I have been fancy, for the next time she You see, mamma, I am improving in eyes rested on her. The pity of it was have something to say to you. that he did not love her, that he never natural charms, in spite of the love that certainty she felt that she was doing no money that he cared, it saw his handsome face, so full of ac nale rose blinds and rare flowers, they evening," said Lady Rooden, with a bright smile-a loveless smile she tried

- Captain Wynyard loved Gladys Rane? me than of any other man in La beautiful woman named Gladys h the chance he had waited for. He must Lady Rooden's face flushed, thew now what was coming: desire of her lieart was attained "The lady I love is far abo similar scene with her dead had loved her with the same deep, ten. is expected. Negro settlers are the object a woman. The past, that held the story | special legislation for the protection of his of her first-love and her marriage, seem- and property in Ireland.

into sudden life, and she stood face to soon marry, and yet in the san

The girl drew a footstool near her

"I am so happy, Angel," repeated her Angela looked up, her face bright wit's

If she had suddenly dashed co. water into her mother's face, her laily lently. The words came to her like staggering blow. She remained silen . Her task was rendered doubly has now, and she moved uneasily. She lain her white gemmed hands on ber daugh.

Your pape's memory is sacred to ma always, Angel," said her ladyship; an t the girl looked up in wonder, noting the constraint in her mother's voice. it was not of him I was thinking j you will learn to love as much as you

Yet, in spite of her happiness and her conviction that she was in every way liberty to please herself, in spite of the harm, her face blanched, her lins grey white and stiff. The words usually for her money that he wished to marry fluent and ready would not come; the band laid caressingly on the dark rip. No one would have guessed this who pling hair trembled. Never had a task "Angel," she went on gently, " I wart von to try to love some one whom already lave very much. We have al wave had the same loves, the sam tastes, the same hallits; we have heen "I heard some news about you last one all our lives, darling; do not les she answered terrently. "You, papa, she was silent. She rallied her courage presently by reminding herself that sho was doing no wrong, that she had been a loyal and loving wife to her husban while he lived, and that she had a per-between us, Angel. We may differ in

TO BE CONTINUED.

The Hungarian Delegation has voted a credit for repeating rifles for the army. A report presented to the German Reichstag describes the Socialist movemen smong workingmen as tending more and more in a radical and extreme direction which gives it a very provocative character, The Earl of Aberdeen speaking at meeting of Irishmen in Glasgow said he was by showing that their convictions did not hinder their being loyal to the Queen. received anjovation. Alex. Sullivan. ex-President of the Irish National League, gives it as his opinion that Lord Randolph Churchill is anxious for the failure of coercica so that he may jump over to the Home Rule side. The English Government, has accepted Mr. Stanley's proposal to head an expedition to the King of Uganda, to induce him to relieve Emir Rey, who with 3 000 Egypt

this was the earnest love of | Parliament may be called upon to consider

Sprigg. 30, of Pittsburg, quarreled Satur. day night over some trifling matter, when

