

Industrial Commissioner Provides B. & P. Members With Details of His Work

"We cannot expect others to place their faith and their destiny in Bowmanville if we lack faith in ourselves. It is up to us, individually and collectively, to do what must be done, to face the challenge of tomorrow by doing those things that logic and careful study tell us should be done today."

K. N. Morris, Bowmanville Industrial Commissioner, told the dinner meeting of the Bowmanville Business and Professional Women's Club held in St. Andrew's Sunday School room on Jan. 21st.

Dedicated to Improvement

The town's Chamber of Commerce is dedicated to the promotion and improvement of the commercial, industrial, agricultural, civic and social welfare of the community, Mr. Morris stated. While many of its projects are directly concerned with business affairs, it is also interested in parks, recreation, playgrounds, town planning, parking, and traffic control; education, civic by-laws, and civic administration, the speaker explained.

The Third Chamber

"Ours is the third Chamber of Commerce in the town's history. Previous Chambers appear to have been organized to deal with a specific project, or problem, and have withered away once the job was done. We are confident that our present Chamber is destined for a long and useful life," Mr. Morris asserted.

K. N. Morris

Task to Secure Industry

Mr. Morris in saying he was the man finally engaged as Secretary-Manager remarked that he commenced the job just over four years ago, and from the outset it was understood that his principal task would be to secure industry for the town, but council was willing that any spare time should be devoted to Chamber of Commerce matters.

Established Liaison

The speaker said that he at once established liaison with the industrial development departments of banks, railways, and other agencies interested in Ontario's industrial growth, and with the Trade and Industry Branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. It is through these sources that most of the contacts with prospective industries are obtained, although sometimes prospects make a direct contact and local citizens furnish leads, Mr. Morris stated. He also mentioned the industrial brochure he compiled.

Manager of Centennial

Mr. Morris is the general manager of the Bowmanville Centennial, 1958, and since then has devoted 90 per cent of his time to industrial development, he said. In 1958 he was appointed Industrial Commissioner. In 1959 the joint Town-Council-Chamber Industrial Committee was disbanded and replaced by a formal Industrial Commission consisting of three members of council and two citizens appointed by Town Council, Mr. Morris pointed out.

Finances Own Operations

He explained that the Chamber finances its own operations and the town's annual appropriation of one mill is spent only on town business. He said as a town employee the limited work he performs for the C. of C. is done only when industrial promotion work permits, or after office hours.

Vital Need For Industry

In discussing Bowmanville's vital need of industrial expansion Mr. Morris referred to the balance of population and employment in the past. If a mill or factory closed, workers and their families left town. "If the number of local jobs did not increase with the growth of resident families then many sons and daughters on leaving school migrated elsewhere. If a new industry came to town, new families moved in," he said.

Oshawa Reaps Harvest

"The average community's assessment was about 60 per cent residential and 40 per cent commercial and industrial". The development of automobiles and of good roads made it possible to commute long distances, he explained. He added that hundreds of workers commute daily to Oshawa. "As a result, Oshawa reaps the harvest of industrial taxation, while Bowmanville has to find the money for roads, sidewalks, water and sewer mains, schools, and other services required by the commuting workers' families."

Made a Late Start

"Bowmanville made a late start in launching its industrial development program. Most Ontario cities and towns have been conducting aggressive campaigns since the end of World War II," Mr. Morris said. The greatest period of expansion was in the early 1950's, he explained. Provincial government figures show that 183 new industries and branch plants were established in 1956, and only 122 in 1958, he said.

One Third To Metro

"Metropolitan Toronto captures one third of the new industries, and another quarter locate in other cities, cities. There are 335 municipalities in Ontario and the chances are one in three, that in one new industry in three years. The odds are about the same for the 50 towns in Bowmanville's population group."

Seven Years For Dunlop

Mr. Morris remarked that it takes only one worthwhile industry to more than repay a town for years of trying, and that one new major industry often brings additional industries in its wake. "Dunlop did not build in Whitby until seven years after it bought the land. Whitby's greatest industrial progress followed construction of the Dunlop plant," he added. He referred to the 75 acre site purchased by Johnson and Johnson Limited in Bowmanville and said it is possible when this firm builds here, a new era of industrial growth will start for the town.

Fully-Serviced Sites

Most of the towns that are going ahead offer fully serviced industrial sites at reasonable prices, the Industrial Commissioner said. While Bowmanville has several hundred acres of industrial land near 401 highway and the two railways, Mr. Morris claimed that "it is absolutely useless to us as long as it is not serviced and available to industry at reasonable prices."

able To Offer Variety

He stated that in the last year a further section of land was rezoned to industrial, and one of the property holders set firm prices that merely covers the cost firm prices have been set in another area. Other owners have verbally intimated prices acceptable to them. We are at last able to offer a variety of sites at prices ranging from low to average."

Financing Facilities

Another major problem is the financing of industrial buildings, Mr. Morris asserted. The policy of an increasingly large number of firms is to rent, and in all Canadian major cities there have long been companies to cater to this demand, the speaker stated.

Business Directory

Mr. Morris recommended that a building and financing company should be formed in Bowmanville. It would give local contractors work, business would be stimulated as well as the Chamber of Commerce matters.

materials would be bought through local suppliers, the profits from rental income would be paid as dividends to local shareholders, more jobs would be created through new industry, and taxes paid by new industry would help to hold down the tax rate, the Industrial Commissioner advised the meeting.

"Let it not be said that we, through fear, indifference, false economy, or selfishness have left our problems to be solved by the next generation. Bowmanville has had a splendid past, and its future can be equally splendid," Mr. Morris said in closing.

WESLEYVILLE

Fine winter weather is making happy days for children who may tunnel, slide and roll in snow to their hearts content. Fields are too well covered for earth to blow and make it dirty so it remains a shiny white everywhere except the edge of the road. There, the high banks showed through the snow plow, look like white canyon walls.

Sprinkled here and there along the road are wisps of hay, evidence that a happy sleighing party passed this way. Last Friday evening, Roy Austin's farm party was held at his home with about 25 present. Roy's dad provided the sleigh and horses, and all returned for refreshments, music and dancing—a happy evening.

Sunday school as usual with Murray Payne superintendent in charge. There were 47 present and Marie Austin read the morning scripture. Some drifted roads took choir members home from practice, but Mrs. Allan Clarke and John Groeneyd sang a duet during church service.

Peter Kelley of Port Hope spent the weekend with Roy Austin; Calvin Brown and Roy Lawson of Port Hope, spent Friday evening with Bill Barrowclough; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kimball of Port Granby visited there the same evening.

KEDRON

The annual meeting of the congregation of Kedron Church was held in the Lower Hall on Thursday evening, with Rev. R. H. Love in the chair. Following an opening worship service, church secretary C. F. Werry read minutes. Reports from the various organizations were presented and approved.

An increase in persons under pastoral oversight was reported from 300 in January, 1959 to 540 in January 1960. Other departments also showed increases. There were 31 baptisms in the past year, and 91 on the Cradle Roll, supervised by Mrs. J. Starr. Total church membership, December 1959, was 148.

Tribute was paid to the late Harvey Crossman, who was a member of the Board of Trustees and church treasurer at the time of his sudden passing in December. A brief "In Memoriam" was conducted by the minister.

Appreciation from the congregation was expressed to Rev. R. H. Love and Mrs. Love for inspiring leadership, to organist Mrs. R. E. Lee, to choir director, Miss Jeanine Werry, and to all choir members. Rev. R. H. Love expressed thanks for the splendid co-operation given him by the various officers and boards.

Derek Barnett, on behalf of the Board of Stewards, spoke a word of thanks to all who made it possible to meet the Property Fund commitments for the purchase of extra land.

The following were elected to positions of leadership in Kedron Church for 1960—Recording Steward, Ross E. Lee; congregational secretary, Clarence F. Werry; presbytery representative, Frank C. Lee; Missionary and Maintenance Committee, William Werry (treasurer), Grant Spencer, Albert Wood, Mrs. E. Mountjoy and Walter Davis; Board of Session, Clarence Werry, Alvin Spencer, Howard Farndale, Walter Davis, Ross Lee, Harold Werry, Mr. Everett Mountjoy, who has been a valued and faithful member of the Session requested release from his duties due to ill-health, and was named an honorary elder of the church. Stewards are Orville Selleck, Albert Wood, Derek Barnett, John Francis, Douglas Love, Ted Maidman, Robert Dale and Lyle Noble. Trustees are, Howard Farndale, William Mountjoy, John Glover, Ross Lee, Everett Mountjoy and Harold Werry.

Collectors and ushers, under convenorship of Albert Wood; reception committee, left to members of Session; grounds committee to be the stewards; Observer secretary, Mrs. Everett Mountjoy; Director of Music, Miss Jeanine Werry; organist, Mrs. Ross E. Lee.

The nominating committee to be responsible for the next annual meeting were named as follows—the clerk of session, secretary of congregation, secretary of Board of Trustees, chairman of stewards, the Sunday School superintendent and the president, or chairman, of the W.A. and all other organizations. This was considered to be a very representative nominating group, which should overcome the old objection to this particular committee, whose careful advance thought and preparation, so greatly expedited elections at the annual meeting.

A few items of business of interest to the congregation were discussed, and a social hour followed adjournment.

The Adult Bible Class and friends were guests on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Werry. Union singing, opened the meeting, led by Mrs. R. E. Lee at the piano, using one verse of a favourite hymn chosen by those present. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Spencer led in a brief worship period. Rev. R. H. Love contributed a vocal solo "Open My Eyes, that I May See".
