Scouting, it's right for you!

Children, teenagers, young adults.... Scouting, it's right for you! Girls and boys, scouting is right for you. Take advantage of Scouting Week, which takes place from February 18 to 25, to visit a scout pack in your area.

If you are seven or eight years old, the Beaver program is right for you! The Beaver program offers these younger scouts an opportunity to enjoy unique and enriching experiences. Come and play games, do crafts, enjoy playacting and storytelling, and learn about nature. Through these lively activities, you will develop your physical, intellectual, and social skills.

If you are between nine and eleven years old, the Cubs are right for you! Girls and boys get together once a week and may participate in camping activities. Inspired by Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Book and the adventures of Mowgli, Cubs participate in activities that encourage their physical, intellectual, emotional, social, and spiritual development.

If you are between twelve and fourteen years old, the Scouts are waiting for you. Scout activities aim to instill a sense of honour, self-confidence, concern for others, and service. Two camps are offered to Scouts where they learn to become more autonomous and responsible. Their motto is: "Be Prepared".

And for those of you who are between fifteen and seventeen years old, the Venturers will offer you a variety of activities, from sports to community service, and an opportunity to participate in jamborees and trips.

Encourage our Youth!

2007: One World One Promise!

Scouting started in 1907 when the famous Robert Baden-Powell organized an experimental camp on Brownsea Island in the United Kingdom for 20 boys from a wide variety of social backgrounds. Today, scouting unites some 20 million girls, boys, women, and men from every race, religion, culture, and nearly every country in the world.

The single theme for all events and activities for the 21st World Scout Jamboree and the Centenary of Scouting celebrations is: "2007: One World One Promise". These two world-wide events are an opportunity for the scouting organization to promote its values, benefits, and achievements to the world. Every year, millions of scouts around the world make a real difference in the lives of others.

The 2007 Scouting celebrations aim to:

- Celebrate 100 years of scouting
- Demonstrate the solidarity of the world of scouting
- Improve and promote the quality of scouting
- Promote peace
- Demonstrate the unique values of scouting
- Offer enjoyable and beneficial experiences
- Demonstrate a commitment to nature and the environment
- Demonstrate that all communities are concerned.

One world one promise... towards a society without prejudice, for greater solidarity.

During 2007, more than 70 "Gifts for Peace" projects will take place in different corners of the world - Scouts making a difference in their communities, mediating conflict with violence, challenging prejudice, and encouraging greater solidarity.
