

When was the last time you looked in your second fridge?

If there's only old and moldy food in there, perhaps it's time to give it the cold shoulder. Not only will it free up some space in your house, but it'll save you up to $200 a year.

Call 1-866-910-2483 today and a Hydro One contractor will come to your house, remove your second fridge, freezer or room air conditioner at no charge and give you a free energy efficiency value pack. You'll be doing your part to conserve energy - and your hard-earned cash. This program is available only for a limited time to eligible Hydro One customers. Please have your Hydro One bill handy when you call or click.

To sign-up, call 1-866-910-2483 or visit us on the web at: www.hydroonenetworks.com/coldshoulder

Bringing Power to the People of Ontario™

"Super Cities" Walk for MS

Photo: Andy Corbier

About 300 walkers took part in the "Super Cities" Walk for MS held in Leamington April 15, joining over 25,000 walkers across Ontario who helped raise funds in the battle against Multiple Sclerosis.

Risk management program urged

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 6
 "Canadians don't realize farm families have a negative income. They have to subsidize their incomes with other work being done by the family."

Nelson asked Layton if the Risk Management Program would be implemented within a month if the NDP were elected to government.

"If it can be done that fast, yes," Layton answered.

Still, for some weary farmers, promises would not be enough.

"I don't have a lot of faith in the political system," said Laramie, who owns a large-acre corn, bean and wheat farm. He said if Canada's agriculture system was fashioned after the United States' model, farmers would be better off.

"Farmers in the U.S. can sell their crop for a low price and the government kicks in," Laramie said.

The Risk Management Program is a similar "three-part solution," with the producer, federal and provincial governments all paying into the system, Nelson said.

"That way, we'd have a return on our investment," he said.

Other farmers said the program would have to have regional flexibility, saying a wheat farmer in Alberta is a lot different than one in Ontario.

With the possibility of a federal election being announced in the near future, Natyshak told farmers he's hopeful he "can stand on (their) behalf in Ottawa."

COMMUNITY CRISIS CENTRE of Windsor-Essex County

SERVICES

24-hour Walk-In Service

Hôtel-Dieu Grace Hospital Emergency Department

Walk-In Service Community Crisis Centre

Jeanne Mance Building 1st Floor

Monday through Friday - 9:00 am to 4:00 pm

24-hour Mobile Crisis Response

Monday through Friday

& Weekends, 3:00 pm to 11:00 pm

Suicide Prevention and Education Programs through Alive! Canada

519-973-4435
 24-Hours a Day, 7 Days a Week

