Canada's OLDEST BANK

Open and at work every business day since November 17th, 1898, Oakville's oldest banking office is today observing the 40th anniversary of its establishment. Today that office forms part of the nation-wide system of Canada's oldest bank—the Bank of Montreal.

As the first permanent bank in British North America, the Bank of Montreal has seen Canada grow from infancy, rising from a few poor and struggling colonies to a great dominion. So, its local office has aided and shared in the progress of Oakville to its present position of importance in the commercial and agricultural life of Halton County.
