The following news appears in large ype, in the Poys :-A scene of a grave character has lately passed at Rame, and one which shows how greatly the sentiments of certain members of the Papal Government differ from those of the Holy Pather, who never speaks of the Emperor without testifying the gratitude which he owes to him. In a recent affray between a French and a Roman soldier about a woman the French: man was wounded. According to exist ing conventions the continuinh soldier ought to have been given up to be tried by a French court-martial, and General de Goyon claimed him. Mgr. de Merods claim, and gave orders accordingly. Mgr. was brought before the Pope, who ordered Mgr. de Merode to give up the soldier. Mgr. de Merodo obstinately refused his sovereign command. He went to General and with threatening gestures spoke in a poleon. The General then ordered him to, be sileut, and told him that sided he wore a miesta dress he could not give him a couple of boxes on the ear; butthe desir: ed him to consider himself as having received them morally, and he added that if he Mgr. de Merede would throw off his freek, he, the General, would take off his
