POETRY.

Robert Burns.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER, OF NEW ENGLAND.

Let those who never erred forget His worth in vain bewailings; Sweet soul of song! I own my debt Uncancelled by his failings.

Lament, who will, the ribald line Which tells his lapse from duty-How kissed the maddening lips of wine, Or wanton ones of beauty.

But think, while falls that shade between The erring one and Heaven, That he who loved like Magdalen, Like her may be forgiven.

Not his the' long whose thund'rous chime Eternal echoes render-The mournful Tuscan's haunted rhyme, And Milton's starry splendour!

Who sweetened toil like him, or paid To love a tribute dearer? Through all his tuneful heart, how strong The human feeling gushes! The very moonlight of his song,

But who his human heart has laid

To Nature's bosom nearer?

Is warm with smiles and blushes! Give lettered pomp to teeth of Time, So "Bonnie Doon" but tarry; Blot out the Epic's stately rhyme-But spare his "Highland Mary!"
