POETRY.

Song in Aid of Sobriety.

Tune-"Poor Mary Ann." Toby Muggins was in liquor, All mops and brooms. Going home he lost his "ticker," All mops and brooms. Out of shape his hat was battered, And his coat was torn and tattered, And his clothes, were much bespattered, All mops and trooms.

In the kennel stretched we found him, All mops and brooms. With a crowd of people round him, All mops and brooms. Set his eyes were in their sockets, Inside out were turned his pockets, Vulgar voices cried, 'Old cock its All mops and brooms!"

Staggering on in zigzag travel, All mops and brooms He had tumbled on the gravel, All mops and brocms. And his nose on that occasion, Had sustained a large abrasion, He was deaft to all persuasion, All mops and brooms.

So, upon his legs unstable, All neops and brooms Or to go or stand unable, All mops and brooms. Four policemen prisoners made him, On a stretcher having laid him, To the station they conveyed him, All mops and brooms .- Punc

'Middle-aged,' replied one of the bearers, at venture. 'Nay,' said she finding her voice in self-defence, 'aw's nobbut nine-an'-twenty.'

POVERTY AND HAPPINESS .- Poverty runs strongly to fun. A man is never so full of jokes as when he is reduced to one shirt and two potatoes. Wealth is taciturn and fretful. Stock brokers would no sooner indugle in a hearty laugh than they would lend money on a second mortgage. Nature is a great believer in compensations. Those to whom she spepsi. The poor never indulge in woodcock, but they have a style of appetite that converts a number three mackeral into a salmon, and that is quite as well.

ANTIQUITY OF THE GAELIC .- A 'Roving Artist' sends the following amusing story: While on a visit to the West Highlands last summer, I lived with an old Celt, who had a most profound veneration for Gaelic and everything tartan. Judging from the difficulty be appeared to have in speaking English, it was little wonder he had no sympathy with that language. He was also a firm believer in the antiquity of his mother tongue : but when sked what proved it so fully to him, he would only answer: 'Got knows to me what is't.'
