ONLY WAITING.

" Only waiting till the shadows, Are little longer grown: Only wanting till the glimmer Of the day's last beam is flowu; Till the night of day is faded From the heart, once full of day Till the stars of heaven are breaking Through the twilight, soft and gray.

"Only waiting till the reapers Have the last sheaf gathered home; For the summer-time is faded, And the autumn winds have come. Quickly, reapers! gather quickly, The last ripe hours of my heart; For the bloom of life is withered, And I hasten to depart.

"Only waiting till the angels Open wide the mystic gate, At whose feet I long have lingered, Wears, poor, and desolate; Even now I hear their footsteps And their voices far away; If they call me 1 am waiting, Only waiting to obey.

" Only waiting till the shadows Are a little longer grown; Only waiting till the glimmer Of the day's last beam is flown; Then from out the gathering darkness Holy, deathless, stars shall rise, By whose light my soul will gladly Tread its pathway to the skies."

The English Cricketers' Beaton

Bythe Australian news we learn that the English cricketers were beaten at Sydney, on the 13th February. The following account says:

The Eleven proceeded to Bathurst, an inland town, and played twenty-two of the district .- In the first innings the the Eleven scored 211; the local team scoring 49 in their first, and had six wickets down for their second, when a heavy fall of rain interfered, and prevented the game from SLEIGH, AND PLOUGH being played out. Messrs, Spiers and Pond had by this time made arrangements that a second match should be played at Sydney, between the Kugland Eleven and the United Elevens of New South Wales and Victoria, as the previous match between the same sides had been drawn. This match was commenced on the 13th of February, and resulted in the defeat of the English players. In the first innings the score was -All England, 60; the United Twenty-two, 101. Second innings: All England, 75; United Twenty-two, 36, winning with 12 wickets to fall. The following were the All England scores :
