The Election Bill. SIR J. A. MACDONALD has introducgislature, whith will most probably become law. It is liberal in its provisions, Special request is made to but very lengthy. It confers the franchise, in cities, on proprietors who own real estate to the value of $400 or over. on lease-holders paying not less than $30 annually, and on persons deriving an income of not less than $400 a year from BEST QUALITY OF their profession or investments. In towns the franchise shall be, for proprietors, $300; tenants, $20 per annum; and incomes, $400. In counties proprietors | ALWAYS ON HAND. $200, tenants $20, and incomes $400. There is to be but one day's polling, but all elections need not be on the same days. Three commissioners are to be appointed in each electorial division to make up and revise the first roll of electors but subsequent rolls are to be revised by an officer appointed for the purpose, who shall be known as the revising barrister. Every possible provision is made in the bill to secure the purity of elections.
