A Pithy Sermon to Young Men.

You are the architects of your own fortunes. Rely upon your own strength of body and soul. Take for your motto self-reliance, honesty and industry; for your star, faith, perseverance and pluck, and inscribe on your banner, 'Be just and fear not.' Don't take too much advice; keep at the helm and steer your own ship. Strike out. Think well of yourself. Fire above the mark tion. Don't practice excessive humiliwater don't run up hill. Energy; invincible determination, with a right mctive, are the levers that move the world. The great art of commanding is to take a fair share of the work. Civility costs nothing, and buys everything. Don't drink; don't smoke; don't swear; don't gamble ; don't steal ; don't deceive ; don't tattle. Be polite; be generotis; Jake, lend me ten dollars till I sell be kind. Study hard; play hard. Be "I say, Pat, what are you about; sympathetically : Jim, I wouldn't sell books. Love your fellow men as your God ; love truth ; leve virtue. Always do what your conscience tells you to be
