

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

'Don't shiver for last year's snow,' a saying of Archbishop Whately's, peculiarly applicable to those who make themselves miserable over troubles of the past.

The way for a man to truly succeed is to do what he thinks best worth his doing, in the way he thinks it ought to be done, and he will have all the success that is worth having.

'No, Biddy,' said Patrick to his wife, 'you never catch any lies coming out of my mouth! You may well say that,' replied Biddy; 'they fly out so fast that nobody can catch 'em.'

'Dennis, darling, oh, Dennis, what is it you're doing?' 'Whisht, Biddy, I'm tryin' an experiment; giving hot water to the chickens I am, so that they'll be after laying boiled eggs.'

'Had, have you been to the museum?' said a ten year old boy. 'No, my son.' 'Well, go, and mention my name to the doorkeeper, and he'll take you round and show you everything.'

We saw in one of the papers the marriage by Rev. I. Gates, of Mr. John Post to Miss Sophia Rife. If this match don't make a fence of the first quality, we should like to know what will.

'I don't wish to say anything against the individual in question,' said a very polite gentleman, 'but would merely remark in the language of the poet, that to him 'truth is stranger than fiction.''

'Ah, me,' said a pious lady, 'our minister was a powerful preacher; for, in the short time he ministered the word among us, he kicked three pulpits to pieces, and banged the 'nards out of five bibles.'

'How is it,' said a man to his neighbor, 'that Parson M—, the laziest man living, writes these interminably long sermons?' 'Why,' says the other, 'he probably gets to writing and is too lazy to stop.'

'Why did you leave your last place?' inquired a young housekeeper about to engage a new servant. 'Why, you see mad'am,' replied the applicant, 'I was too good-looking, and when I opened the door folks took me for the missus.'

That was an apt reply of the lady, who, at a charity fair, offered the plate to a rich man well known for his stinginess. 'I have nothing,' was the curt reply. 'Then take something, sir,' she answered, 'you know I am begging for the poor.'

'Frencheman—Madame, you charge ver moonch coo-prise for zat room! Land-lady—'Oh, you know, we at the water-ing places must make hay while the sun shines.' Frencheman (indignant)—'Madame, you shall never make so hay of me. You must not think because all flesh is grass, zat you can make hay of me.'

'A close fisted fellow treating a friend to some old wine poured out a very small quantity. The latter, taking the glass and holding it above his head, remarked, rather skeptically: 'You say this is forty years old?' 'Yes,' replied the host. 'Then,' replied the other, 'all that I have to say is, that it is very small for its age.'

A physician examining a student as to his progress, asked him, 'Should a man fall into a well forty feet deep, and strike his head against one of the tools with which he had been digging, what would be your course if called in as a surgeon?' The student replied, 'I should advise them to leave that man lie, and fill up the well.'

Our Moons.—'Moods' are to be watched lest they influence us in the wrong direction, and bring to us and to others much trouble and sorrow. They often lead us to magnify trifles, to play the fool with striking ingenuity. Moments of spite and weakness often cause words that never can be recalled, often destroy the happiness of the domestic circle, often fritter away affection and sour the kindly feelings of the heart. Keep watch over your 'moods' and conquer them, or they will conquer you.

GOOD AND EVIL.—Why there is pain and death in the world, it has not yet pleased the Father to declare; but since his goodness is abundant, and his wisdom and power have no bounds, we cannot doubt but that the reasons, when they shall be made known, will attest some hidden wisdom, which man is not yet able to comprehend. All that we know is that everything exists by God's absolute decree; that evil exists and therefore that evil exists by God's absolute decree. Why plagues and earth quakes have desolated the earth, why pain and guilt have troubled mankind, we may hope to learn hereafter; and till then we may wait patiently, since we see how beauty rises up out of the dust, how peace issues from war, and how purity is wrought out of repentance.

HOME INFLUENCE.—We shall never know till we are ushered into eternity how great has been the influence which one gentle, loving spirit has exercised in a household, shedding the mild radiance of its light over all the common events of daily life, and checking the inroads of discord and sin, by the simple setting forth of that love which 'seeketh not her own, but which suffereth long, and is kind.'

The most bashful girl that we ever knew was one who blushed when she was asked if she had not been courting sleep.

A Remarkable Bear Story.

The following account of extraordinary conduct on the part of a bear has been related to us.—About two weeks ago a child of Mr. John Sinclair, Goshen, Antigonish county, aged four years, and an elder sister went out herding cows. The latter having occasion to remove some distance left her little sister standing at a gate till she should return, when she missed the child, but was attracted by her cries in another direction. On proceeding to the spot she found her safe and sound, and on inquiring how she had got there she replied that she had been carried 'by a big black dog,' and that he carried her sometimes in his arms and sometimes in his mouth. The child was not injured in any way. The parents of the child readily understood, by the story of the child and the smell on the child's clothes, that the 'big black dog' was nothing less than a bear. Next morning Mr. Sinclair going out saw a large bear prowling about in the same vicinity, but before firearms could be procured she escaped.

Remedy for White Hairs.

The white hairs that appear on horses from the use or wear of the saddle or harness are often unsightly. My remedy is a very simple one. Take a piece of butter or fresh lard, large enough to give the spot a thorough greasing; rub the same with the hand until it becomes quite hot, repeating the operation at least three or four times. The white hairs will soon come out and hairs of natural color take their place. I have tried this on several horses, and never knew it to fail. I think the best time to do it is in the winter, before the new coat starts.

A down-East clergyman once said that he wrote a sermon in a day, and thought nothing of it. His people held the same opinion.

TAVERN SCENE.—Landlord, come here; I have got a secret that will make your fortune for you. 'No! what is it?' 'Do you see that roast goose at the head of the table?' 'Yes; what of it?' 'That is the very one whose cackling saved Rome.'

'Do you believe, sir, that the dead ever walk after death?' 'No doubt of it, madam; I have heard the 'Dead March in Sam!'

GOOD RULES.—Stick to your trade. Fulfill your promises. Make honest change. Keep your life insured. Pay your bills promptly. Don't wait to be damned. Watch your bank account. Finish up your work daily. Don't keep a business man waiting. Don't be asleep when you're working.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Progress.—In a country like ours, where there are those who yet remember the privations and inconveniences of the settlers, the many mechanical improvements and labor-saving machines indicate a progress unparalleled in history. We have now machinery to lighten the labor of seed-time and harvest—inventions to increase the comfort of life—and to facilitate communication. To lessen mortality and stop the inroads of disease, we have the great Shoshonees Remedy for diseases of the lungs, liver, and kidneys. For sale by all Druggists. 1874.

Interest on Money.

One of the most satisfactory indications of the growing prosperity and wealth of Canada, is to be found in the present abundance of money seeking investment, and the comparatively low rates of interest at which it can be obtained. In this connection we observe that the Canada Permanent Building Society, our leading local lending institution, has just made a material reduction in their rates, and now offer terms and facilities for re-payment, which enable owners of real estate to redeem their properties by simply paying a rental for a few years. With such inducements, many, who are now paying high rents, will find it to their interest to build and become their own landlords.
