

Suffered from Infancy.

THE WAND OF MERCY WAVED OVER
MRS. THOS. GREEN.

From Her Childhood She Suffered from Heart Troubles—Doctors Said Nothing Could Be Done for Her, and that Her Death at Any Moment Would Not Surprise Them.

From the Herald, Stratford.

"Of the making of books there is no end," it has been said, and the same claim might be set up in respect of the making of testimonials in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Wonderful as are some of the statements published in the newspapers as to the cures effected in all parts of the country, fresh evidence groves the half has not yet been told. Were it not for a false sense of delicacy which a great many people entertain in regard to such matters the columns of the press would be literally teeming with grateful acknowledgments of benefit derived from and permanent cures effected by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is quite within the mark to say that there is no other medicine offered the public that can at all compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and there is not a corner in this wide Dominion in which their virtues have not been proved. A cure which recently came to the knowledge of a representative of the Herald is deserving of being widely known. It is an instance of heart trouble that baffled the skill of a number of physicians, some of whom positively refused to treat the patient on the ground that it was no use. The subject of the affliction referred to is the wife of a highly respected and well-to-do farmer in the township of Logan, near the village of Dublin. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Green are firm believers in the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and for very good reasons. Mrs. Green had suffered everything but death from a weak heart, the trouble having afflicted her since early childhood. On several occasions she has been so low that it was not thought possible for her to recover. Her greatest trouble often arose from exhaustion or a sudden start, and at such times her heart seemed to cease its throbbing and the breathing was fitful and labored. Doctor's medicine seemed to have no effect whatever. She was advised by one physician that all that could be done was to keep her strength up, and it was with a view to strengthening her system, and with no hope that her heart would be benefitted, that she began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She had not been taking them long, however, where there was an unmistakable relief from the trouble that had made her whole life miserable. During the past summer she has used Pink Pills freely, and has enjoyed better health than for many years before, and has been able not only to do her household work, but also many of the out-door chores that fall to the lot of a farmer's wife. The different physicians who have treated her have frequently told her husband that they would not be surprised to hear of her death at any moment, but she is to-day a strong woman, enjoying better health than she has done for years. Both Mrs. Green and her husband feel grateful for the great benefit she has received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and spare no words in sounding their praises to everyone who enquires what has wrought such a wonderful change in Mrs. Green's health and spirits.

In cases of paralysis, spinal troubles, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which make the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses, will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail postpaid, at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

SPANKED FOR THE FAMILY.

People never get encouragement for doing the Good Samaritan act in the interests of the public, as the man decided who offered to assist a distracted woman and ameliorate the sufferings of a lot of people on a suburban car.

The boy who howls was in evidence, the curled darling of his only own mother and the terror of everybody else, and he had kept the car in a state of wild excitement and exhausted the patience of everybody, including his dotting parent.

"Oh, if our father were only here!" she had said for the fiftieth time, as she tried vainly to restrain the howling terror.

At that he stopped howling long enough to beat the air with his small hands, and the woman on the other side of him remarked audibly that a cage was the proper place for savages like him.

"Johnny dear," asked his mother, "won't you be a good boy?"

Roars and kicks from Master Johnny.

"Oh, I wish your father were here to give you a good trouncing this very minute!" she wailed as she struggled with him.

Then it was that the philanthropist of the company asserted himself. He had been trying in vain to read his morning paper ever since he started from home.

"Allow me, madam," he said blandly. "I am a father myself, and I will be happy to chastise your cherub in behalf of his absent parent."

"Oh, no, you won't, not if I know it!" said Johnny's mother, rising in her wrath like a tigeress. "There ain't that man living dare lay a finger on that boy—his only father or any other ugly old catamount who thinks he knows it all," and she shut off debate by going into the next car and taking the sweet infant with her.

ENGLISH ROTHSCHILD.

Interesting Story of the Head of the Famous Family.

The greatest financial genius of the Rothschild family, though they have been many of great talent, was Nathan Mayer, of the second generation, who established the house of N. M. Rothschild & Co., in 1788, in London. He flew to the stars and groveled in the mud for money. He welcomed all transactions, big or little, wherewith to turn the banker's penny. He was the "most daring speculator of his time on the Stock Exchange and the most successful. He had carrier-pigeons and fast-sailing boats to bring him the earliest news from the war centers of Europe, and so help him to manipulate stocks. He followed Wellington's army to Waterloo in person and at once sent the swiftest horses, and a fast yacht lying in the harbor at Ostend, so he arrived at the London Stock Exchange after the battle, 12 hours ahead of any public announcement of the victory, made £5,000,000 by one of the most tremendous series of speculations in history. In 1810, when the Duke of Wellington, then commanding in Spain, drew on the English Government for £5,000,000, and the English Treasury was short, Nathan bought the drafts at a big discount and at once sent the money. The stories about this remarkable man are almost endless, and show how strangely he was alike equal to the most tremendous schemes and the pettiest tricks of avarice.

HIGH-TONED BURGLAR.

He Dressed Faultlessly and Lived in Sumptuous Apartments in Paris.

There have been burglars in evening dress before, on the stage, for instance, but the Paris police say there was never one with such a distinguished air or aristocratic residence. He had Dukes and Duchesses for next-door neighbors.

A gentleman living in that district caught the burglar ransacking his rooms. He was dressed in the most correct evening clothes, and an air of distinction. The gentleman notified the police.

They saw the burglar walk unconcernedly downstairs and carefully examine the floral decoration as he hummed an air from an opera. When he was arrested he gave an unpronounceable Slavonic name, and his address in the Avenue des Champs Elysees.

Thither went some of his captors, and found that he lived in an expensive bachelor's flat, or celebrator's snugery, beautifully furnished. A search was made there, and brought to light a remarkable assortment of burglar's tools, as well as a list of persons whose apartments could easily be entered and plundered. It has been ascertained, in fact, that the man is a practised burglar, and that he adopted fashionable attire in order to defy suspicion.

General housebreaking operations lately effected in the Champs Elysees and similar districts are now put down to his credit, and it is probable that his trial will lead to some curious discoveries.

SUICIDAL DOCTORS.

What is the Explanation of a Remarkable Fact Shown by Statistics?

Statistics show that the medical profession is more prone to suicide than any other. During the last three years the number of suicides occurring among physicians has been, respectively, forty-nine, and forty-seven per annum, an average of nearly one to 2,000; or, as the death rate among the physicians about twenty-five to 1,000, nearly one-fiftieth of all the deaths in the profession have been by suicide. It has been suggested that an explanation of this tendency may be found in the development of morbid fancies in the mind of a doctor, on account of his constant association with the sick and dying, or because he has the requisite knowledge of how to die painlessly and conveniently.

A medical journal dissents from all these views and holds that the leading factor is the accessibility of the poisonous drugs, which are almost invariably used. Suicide is largely a matter of insane impulse. Imagine a man fatigued in body and depressed in spirits—as the doctor very often is—swayed by an overwhelming conviction of the utter weariness of life to the impulse of suicide. If he had to put on his hat walk to the drug store and tax his ingenuity for a lie with which to explain his desire for poison, he might postpone the fatal act from mere inertia, or he may meet a friend or have his interest in life aroused by one of a multitude of every-day occurrences, or physical exercise may bring him to his senses. If, however, as is the case with almost every doctor, he has simply to feel in his pockets, or walk across his office to get a deadly poison, the impulse may be carried into execution before anything can happen to supplant it in the brain.

THE SMELL OF RAIN.

After a summer shower you must have often noticed that fresh, curious, but not unpleasant odor that rises from the new watered earth. Lately it occurred to a well-known man of science to investigate the cause. It proves to be produced by a new compound never before discovered, of which a pound of soil less than one hundred-thousandth of an ounce exists. This compound has, as far as known, some of the properties of camphor; but so very little could be obtained that there was much difficulty in conducting the experiment.

TWENTY YEARS OF LUMBAGO.

YET KOOTENAY CURE CONQUERS.

It is a long time to look back over twenty years of life, but when the mile posts have been marked by the pains and aches of Lumbago, it renders the retrospect far from being a pleasant one.

Such was the experience of Mr. James Muir, Night Baggage Master, G.T.R., residence 243 Emerald street, Hamilton, Ont.

He made a sworn declaration to the effect that for over 20 years he was afflicted with Lumbago, and at times was so severely afflicted he could not walk.

For about ten years he could not stand straight for a longer period than about fifteen minutes, when he would be compelled to stoop forward in order to relieve himself. He took nine bottles of Kootenay Cure and they have cured him to stay cured. He says—

"I told Mr. Ryckman if I felt no pains for one year after taking his medicine, that I would give him a testimonial, and as the time expires this week I come to him without solicitation to give this sworn declaration. I consider Kootenay Cure one of the greatest and best remedies for back or kidney troubles ever used by mankind, and wish my case to become generally known, as I doctored with five different medical men, and was told they could do nothing for me."

SURGEON AND JOCKEY.

Frederick Archer, England's famous jockey, was evidently a wit at one time. It is told, says an exchange, that he went to a famous surgical specialist to be treated for badly smashed toes, injured by an ill-tempered horse. The surgeon examined the injury, which he pronounced to be of a grave character, and one necessitating a long period of complete rest. "How long must I lie up?" asked Archer—the interview, it should be stated, took place early in April.

"Three months' rest, with careful treatment and proper diet, would be sufficient." "But what about the Derby?" asked the patient. "The Derby?" repeated the surgeon. "I must be there." "Well, well," said the surgeon, soothingly, "take great care of yourself and if you make satisfactory progress you might go." "Go?" "Yes." "But can I ride?" "Well," said the surgeon, "you had better drive, I think." He had read the name upon the patient's card, but it had meant to him nothing more than a name. "You mustn't think me rude, Mr. Archer," he said, when his guest had explained his identity and vocation, "but I take no interest in any branch of sport, and I had never heard your name." "Well," said Archer, "I hope you won't think me rude, either, but till a friend advised me to consult you, I had never heard your name, either. And when I asked my friend who you were he said, 'He is the Fred Archer of the surgical profession.'"

THE PRINCE'S KENNELS.

At his Sandringham home the Prince takes great interest in his kennels, which comprise about 15 houses, each having its own yard, and every group of five its front grass plot. A paddock where the dogs are allowed to romp in turn, and a hospital for invalids, have also been added. The Prince's kennelman has some 70 dogs under his care, of various shapes, sizes, and breeds, most of which has been presented to the Squire of Sandringham. Two noteworthy animals are Laska, the Siberian, and Perla, the Lapland sledge dogs. In their northern homes these dogs are expected to draw 150 pounds each for a distance of 30 miles a day, without effort. But, then, the temperature is 50 degrees below zero there.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

IT WAS A BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A little girl who lives in Crafton received an invitation to a party which a friend was about to give, says the Pittsburg "Chronicle-Telegraph." The invitation had been written by the small hostess. After surveying the note with delight for a few minutes the recipient said: "Papa, I wonder if it is a birthday party. Let me see the invitation. After a brief inspection he said: 'Yes; it must be a birthday party. It begins, Your presents is desired.' He is the best accountant who can cast up correctly the sum of his own errors.—Nevins.
