EDITORIAL.

Mr. Whitney in his campaign has pointed out, time and again, that only five per cent of the children of this province, receive the benefits of a High School or Collegiate training, and he has demonstrated just as clearly, that the expenditure of public funds for the support of intermediate, or secondary education, is wholly out of proportion to the amount expended in our public schools, where the remaining ninety-five per cent begin and end their educational career. The evil is beginning to work out its results, and in the course of a few years will reach its full fruition. Mr. Ross, the head of the educational machine, is causing the country to be over-run with public school teachers, who jostle with each other in the race to secure the advertised vacancies, and in some instances to resort to the deplorable system of underbidding, and causing vacancies where no vacancy would otherwise have existed. The penurious trustees, often the most penurious in a penurious section, without considering the ultimate result, select the cheapest teacher to be found, with the mistaken idea that a great service has been done to the community. We do not wish to say that a teacher who works for a small salary is necessarily a poor teacher, but in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, the value a man places on his own services is generally on a par with his real worth. Thus, under the present system, and its inevitable result—the reduction of salaries to a mere starvation wage—the better class of teachers will be compelled to drop out of the profession, and the training of our pupils will be placed in the hands of raw recruits, of immature judgment, and wholly incapable of guiding the intellectual faculties.

It may be argued, that through our increased High School facilities, we have a better trained class of public school teachers than formerly. In some respects we admit this to be true, but in others far from it, and moreover, we venture to assert, that some of the recent changes in our school curriculum have a tendency to destroy the practical, by substituting some of the embellishments. Why put on two languages never likely to be used in the public school, at the sacrifice of English and mathematics, neither of which is too well understood by our best teachers.

The coming premier, Mr. J. P. Whitney is making good time in educating the province on the wickedness of the Ontario Liberal administration. If Premier Hardy had only called the meeting of the Legislature for June or July instead of November 30th, the chances for the retention of the Liberals would have been better, but Whitney has been giving light on the subject that will not fail to shine at the next election. The four million dollar surplus bequeathed to the party on entering office has been reduced to a deficit of $446,000, or at best as Mr. Hardy would have it a deficit of $212,000. The big surplus cry has vanished and the effort of the Liberals now is to make out that the wicked Tories are trying to magnify the deficit. Even Mr. Hardy's deficit of $212,000 is a poor substitute for the boasted surplus.

Mr. McNicol, the present sitting member in the Ontario Legislature is the strongest candidate the Patrons can bring out. From what we learn he is sure of the Patron support generally, seventy or eighty per cent of the Liberals in the west and a large per cent of those in the remainder of the constituency. Many of the Liberals of all classes express dissatisfaction regarding the choice of the Liberal candidate and are not backward about saying so. As matters now stand Mr. McNicol is the Samson of the party and will certainly go to the poll though many of the machine Liberals openly boast that they will "fix" him so that he will not be in their way.

THE Durham—Chatsworth mail route was restored on Monday morning last, and is likely to continue until after the election. This concession has saved to the Liberal party, as one of them said to us, "more Grit votes than $5000 could buy." Mr. Mulock's immutability exists only where Grit influence is not sacrificed, and Dr. Landerkin is able to give pointers. Unfortunately, Merritt has none of the Mulock stripe of politics and needn't look for any favors.

There will be a Conservative Candidate in the coming contest in South Grey. Whitney the next Premier.
